THREE CENTS.

TWO MEN FLEE QUIZ IN MURDER OF FAMILY OF 3

Suspected Liquor Makers and Associates Quit
Virginia Hills.

SHERIFF TO EXAMINE
HOME'S RUINS AGAIN

Skull of Former Soldier Not Yet Found; Large Crowd
Drawn to Scene.

Two suspects in the supposed murder of Goodwin Miller, 37-year-old World War veteran, whose decapitated body was found with the remains of his wife and child in their burned home near Kopp, Va., about 7 miles from Quantico, have disappeared from their usual haunts, since the discovery of the triple deaths.

It was this pair, part of a group of five or six suspected moonshiners, whom Justice of the Peace Willard E. Lloyd, of Triangle, Va., had intended questioning in regard to the mysterious deaths. So far as Mr. Lloyd has learned the men have been missing since Saturday.

After search of the woods in the vicinity of Miller's home, Mr. Lloyd and Constable C. A. Bryant said they were unable to locate the skull of the former soldier. Further examination of the debris of the Miller home is scheduled for today by Sheriff John P. Kerlin, of Prince William County.

Three Associates Sought.

Three men who have been seen in the vicinity of the Miller home and who are associates of the two missing men were sought yesterday in the hills. All of them, Mr. Lloyd said, have been under suspicion for two months as moonshiners.

None of them have any visible means of support, Mr. Lloyd said, yet they operate two expensive cars and always seemed well supplied with money. So far as he has learned, the two men who he wished to find boarded a bus for New York some time Saturday.

Their rendezvous in the woods, he said, is believed to be about a mile from the Miller home. After an all-day search yesterday, Mr. Lloyd said he had been unable to locate their base of operations. According to information obtained by him, the group is reputed to run liquor into Washington.

Moonshiners' Feud Blamed.

In Mr. Lloyd's belief, the supposed murders were the outgrowth of a moonshiners' feud. Miller, he said, had been suspected of running a still for the past several months, and on one occasion, he and a Federal agent had searched the neighborhood of his home. They discovered 12 bushels of wheat, used in distillation of liquor, he said, but found no still.

In a search through the debris of the Miller home yesterday, Mr. Lloyd and Constable Bryant uncovered the wheat, which had been steeped in water. This is used for the distillation of liquor, which is marketed in Washington as "rye whiskey," Mr. Lloyd said.

Several footprints leading from the woods to the home were found yesterday. After tracing the prints nearly half a mile, they became indistinguishable in the grassy woods. Other evidence of foul play was uncovered, when officers found pieces of bone, apparently skull bones, adhered to molten fragments of 2-quart jars.

Trio Believed Unconscious.

Sheriff Kerlin and Mr. Lloyd believe that Miller, his 21-year-old son, Virginia, and their 6-month-old son, Melvin, were knocked unconscious by blows or rendered senseless by drugs before their bodies were burned.

The ruins of the house, several miles in the hills, were visited yesterday by hundreds of people from the surrounding countryside, most of whom attended burial services for the Miller family at 9 o'clock in the First Baptist Church, at Belle Haven, Va.

The bodies of the three were found by relatives and neighbors after it had been discovered that their home had been burned, and, contrary to belief, they were not visiting at the home of relatives.

Slayer Clears Man 23 Years in Prison

Illinois Convict Is Freed by Confession Made on Deathbed.

Chester, Ill., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Freed by the death-bed confession of another, Jesse Lucas left Menard Prison today after serving 23 years for a murder he always insisted he did not commit.

"And now I'm vindicated," Lucas told Mayor T. B. Wright, of Mount Carmel, Ill., who met him at the prison gates and took him back to his home town.

A death-bed confession by George R. Pond, a farmer who lived near Decker, Ind., that he killed Clyde Shewalter, a young stock buyer, 28 years ago, gave Lucas his freedom.

Stevens Here, Finds Legion Is Dry Target

Veterans' Chief Arrives
As Plan Is Laid to Split
Groups Voting Wet.

(Associated Press.)

Henry L. Stevens, Jr., arrived here yesterday to find the American Legion, which he now heads, named as a special objective in 1932 campaign plans of organized prohibition forces.

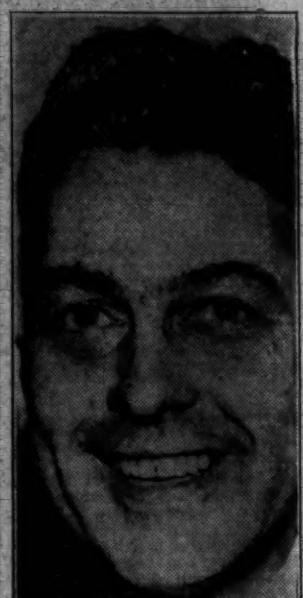

The new national commander of legionnaires came to return President Hoover's unexpected call on the Detroit convention, where the vote was cast that stirred dry leaders to action. He will see Mr. Hoover today.

His voice a trifle hoarse from a week of talking legion politics, Stevens was looking forward to solitude and fishing at Roanoke Island, N. C. He met a war-muster of drys intent upon reaching prohibition adherents in the legion whom they contend did not attend the convention.

A two-day meeting of the board of strategy of the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment had just drafted a plan of attack making the legion, labor unions, lawyers and doctors the particular fields for new prohibition campaigns.

Stevens reiterated he is a "personal dry from a dry-voting State."

"But this is a government by the majority," he said. "One of the best places to feel the pulse of the people is in a Pullman smoking room.

"I have yet to sit in on a smoker conversation where the subject did not eventually drift to prohibition."

JURORS MAY PROBE INTIMIDATION LINK

October Cases Presented by Justice Agents May Prove Sensational.

Links between two men now held under $3,600 bonds each on charges of intimidation of a Government witness and police accused in the brutality scandal will be presented before the October grand jury by Department of Justice agents, and may prove just as interesting and revealing as the instances of third-degree practices themselves.

The case of intimidation made by the undercover agents alleges that the two men approached George B. Baber, who testified before the invalid July grand jury in a brutality case, and asked him to "go light" on a headquarter detective because this man had done them a favor and saved them from a "rap."

What this favor was and how the police accorded it, may prove an interesting high light of police administration of justice in the National Capital.

It is possible that these things will come out on October 9, when Maurice Wheatley O'Connor, one of the men accused in the intimidation warrant, is given a hearing before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, but this is doubtful. It is more likely that O'Connor will be indicted by the October jury, which convenes on October 6, even before he is brought before Mr. Turnage.

Cecil Mason, the other man arrested in the intimidation case, entered a guilty plea as soon as he was brought before Mr. Turnage for arraignment Saturday.

While the muddled situation dragged along, due to the delay caused by discovery of a Government pensioner on the July grand jury, thus invalidating all indictments returned by that body, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, said yesterday the Police Department would take no disciplinary action against Detective Sergeant Robert Barrett, whose name appeared in the warrants for Mason and O'Connor.

The warrants read that an endeavor was made to "intimidate and

Red Flags Raised By Dole Cut Foes

British Mass Meeting Is Planned Near Parliament
Tuesday.

London, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—A series of country-wide demonstrations against the government's 10 per cent cut in the dole was brought to a boiling climax today under red flags raised in Hyde Park.

About 2,000 adherents of Communist organizations, which have been active in some violent demonstrations in Scotland in the last week, marched to the park, where about 5,000 spectators were gathered opposite aristocratic Park Lane. Speakers announced that the unemployed would attempt to hold a mass meeting in front of Parliament on Tuesday. It was believed likely such a meeting would lead to more serious clashes.

Some of the speakers demanded a "British workers' republic." About 100 policemen stood on the outside of the crowd, which was orderly.

Two Men Dead, 1 Hurt In Wrecking of Plane

Mitchell Field, Long Island, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—Two passengers were killed and the pilot was seriously injured when a biplane crashed near here today.

One of the men killed was Edward Diehl, Jr., 30, of Flushing, Long Island. The other victim was 30-year-old Stanley Bateman, 30, pilot of the plane, was taken to hospital with a fractured skull and severe internal injuries.

POLICE SHOTS FELL SUSPECT IN MURDER

Condition of Convict Is Held Critical After Three Officers Fire.

A 40-year-old colored man, wanted on a murder charge in Virginia, and at large from Lorton Reformatory since June, 1930, fell critically wounded under a fusillade of police bullets yesterday afternoon, after a short chase which threw the neighborhood in the vicinity of Georgia avenue and Euclid streets into confusion.

The man, Thomas Harvey, was rushed to Freedman's Hospital, where it was said early last night that his condition was serious.

Three guns, in the hands of Detective Sgt. C. E. Mansfield and Second Precinct Privates M. J. Mahoney and A. D. Mullins, were fired at the same time, and none of the policemen were able to say whose bullet struck Harvey. Mansfield's partner, J. W. Wise, did not fire. The officers had gone to the neighborhood on an anonymous tip.

Harvey, who was indicted for the murder of Nathan Harding, colored, in March, 1930, at Victoria, Va., broke into a run when he saw the policemen approaching.

The wounded man escaped from the Lorton institution, where he was serving a sentence for housebreaking, on which charge he was convicted here on June 16, 1930. Virginia authorities had expected to take him into custody on the Victoria indictment upon his release from the Lorton Reformatory.

The official report of the policemen reads:

"To Inspector Stoll, Capt. Edwards, and Second Precinct:

"About 6 p. m., September 27, 1931, while at 2542 Georgia avenue northwest, and while placing Thomas Harvey, alias Clarence Davis, alias Joe Howard, colored, 40 years old, an escaped convict and fugitive from justice (Virginia) under arrest, he placed his right hand in the right hip pocket of his pants and ran with his hand still in his pocket and failed to stop after being commanded to halt. He was fired at by Officer M. J. Mahoney, of Second Precinct; Driver Private A. D. Mullins, attached to Detective Bureau as driver of office car; Detective Sgt. Charles E. Mansfield, of Detective Bureau. He was arrested about two minutes later in front of 2542 Georgia avenue northwest by the above officers. It was then found he was suffering from a gun shot wound in the left side of his back. Removed to Freedman's Hospital in Detective Bureau car and treated by Dr. Francis B. J. Luke, of the above staff. Has no pulse. Woman with whom he lived at above address notified.

Lloyd Hamilton, Film Comedian, Hit by Auto

Los Angeles, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Lloyd Hamilton, motion picture comedian, was seriously injured when he was struck by an automobile here last night. He suffered a broken leg, deep scalp cuts and probably internal injuries.

E. W. Schaffer, driver of the car, said Hamilton stepped from the curb into the machine's path.

Kingsford-Smith Arrives at Jhansi

British Flier Stops at Calcutta for Brandy on London Hop.

Jhansi, India, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, who is en route from Australia to London hoping to set a new record time for the flight, landed here tonight from Calcutta. He abandoned plans to stop at Allahabad on the way.

Calcutta, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, who is endeavoring to establish a new record for a flight from Australia to London, made an unexpected landing here at 11:30 a. m. today. The noted aviator landed to obtain brandy because, he said, he had been suffering from fainting spells.

2 SCANDINAVIAN COUNTRIES END GOLD STANDARD

Norway and Sweden Join in Move Launched by Great Britain.

EMBARGO ON EXPORT
ANNOUNCED BY BOTH

Bank Rates Are Increased;
Denmark May Follow;
U. S. Unaffected.

(Associated Press.)

Norway and Sweden have temporarily gone off the gold standard, just a week after Great Britain took similar action.

An embargo was placed on the exportation of gold by both countries and the bank discount rates were raised to 8 per cent.

The discount rate of Norway went up from 5 per cent and that of Sweden from 6 per cent.

The decision to follow the action of Great Britain was made at cabinet meetings in Oslo and Stockholm yesterday.

Both countries have been off the gold standard before. Norway suspended the gold standard shortly after the outbreak of the World War, and returned to it in 1928, when it again permitted the export of gold. Sweden had restored the gold standard several years earlier.

Sweden's Position Held Good.

Sweden's financial position was said by Finance Minister Hamrin last Friday, when the bank rate was raised from 5 per cent to 6 per cent, to be as sound as any in Europe. The country had a surplus of several million kroner in July and exports were only slightly under last year's, he said.

Norway's finances for the fiscal year ended last July, on the other hand, showed a net deficit of approximately $1,800,000.

Concurrently with Norway's decision to suspend the gold standard, the Central Banks of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland announced that they had decided on joint measures for the future to maintain the parity of currency.

Copenhagen, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—The cabinet will meet tomorrow morning to discuss the financial situation arising from the suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain, Sweden and Norway.

Holland to Keep Gold.

Amsterdam, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—The gold standard will be maintained unconditionally, the Netherlands Bank announced today. The announcement said no inflation was expected and that the bank's gold position is stronger than ever. In view of recent discussions with the Bank of England, it was not believed there would be any loss on the pound in foreign exchange.

Graf Passes Almeria, Spain, on Way Home

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin, German dirigible, reported at 9:45 o'clock tonight (2:45 p. m. E. S. T.) that it had passed Almeria, Spain, on its homeward journey from Pernambuco, Brazil.

BASEBALL'S OPPORTUNITY

ORGANIZED baseball has been called upon to aid in relieving the unemployment distress by designating for charity a share in the world series starting Thursday.

It has been proposed that the proceeds of one of the series games in which the national baseball commission, the leagues, the owners of the contesting clubs, and the players gain shares be turned over to a responsible national organization for distribution to the needy.

The first to come forward in support of a charitable gesture by baseball is Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington Club and pitifully idol of the Nation for two decades.

Declaring that he has ever been willing to aid the cause of charity, Walter Johnson yesterday pledged himself to contribute any part or all of the world series purse which he will net as manager of the third-place American League club if the proposal is adopted by the baseball powers.

Johnson said that he could speak only for himself in the matter and not on behalf of the other players of the Washington team and obviously could not speak for the club owners or league officials.

The proposal that baseball should share in the relief of the needy, many of whom are the same fans who supported the game so handsomely in years past and even during the depression, is being laid before the players, club owners, league presidents and Commissioner Landis.

They can not be forced to respond to charity's plea. They can, however, keep the faith with the people whose dollars built uncounted baseball fortunes. Organized baseball has not suffered from the depression. Rather, its attendance and receipts have increased. The Nation awaits the response of the men who can cement public faith in the game the magnates so fondly call the national pastime.

BERLIN THROG CHEERS FRENCH ENVOYS WILDLY

Hysterical Mobs Greet
Laval and Briand;
Urge Peace.

NATIONS PLAN JOINT ECONOMIC COUNCIL

Crowds Break Police Lines to Make Demand of End to War.

(Associated Press.)

Berlin, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—Pierre Laval, smiling premier of the French republic, arrived in the German capital today on a mission of friendship and was greeted by a hysterical, cheering crowd that hurled itself through double police lines, shouting "Peace, peace! No more war!"

Surrounded by thousands of police who turned the Friedrichstrasse Station into an armed camp, Laval and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand were acclaimed by an outburst favoring pacifism that was unprecedented in the long history of Franco-German relations and which appeared to be the most encouraging of any recent manifestation toward stable relations between the two nations.

Later Laval and Briand met with Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius and agreed to form a permanent Franco-German economic committee as a step toward better relations.

The committee would be expected to pave the way for the more important adjustment of Franco-German political problems, which have been described repeatedly as the most vital issue in solution of Europe's tangled economic and political affairs.

World Thoroughly Disturbed.

"The Franco-German committee would investigate the economic problems of both countries," said Laval, expressing hope for secure relations between the two nations. "The world is thoroughly disturbed by an economic crisis unparalleled in history. The eyes of the world are focused upon us. Now is the time to act."

The economic committee plan, designed to investigate better communications, closer cooperation and possibly the unemployment problem, had been expected as a result of the visit of the French ministers, but the delirious welcome given them by the crowd was beyond the expectations of the most ardent advocate of reconciliation.

German officials, remembering the visit of Napoleon I to Berlin at the head of his army more than a century ago and the bitter hostilities which had kept the two countries apart since then, were faced with an unprecedented situation in greeting Laval and Briand. Undoubtedly there was fear of violence or hostility, for the station and surrounding streets were thick with police. Germans had difficulty in passing through the area.

Steel Workers Planning Minimum Wage Demand

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Plans for formation of a national union of steel workers were discussed here today at a conference called by the Metal Workers Industrial League. John Malden, secretary of the league, said the conference was attended by 425 delegates, representing every steel-producing center excepting Birmingham, Ala.

William Z. Foster, national secretary of the Trades Union Unity League, said demands would be made for a $5 daily minimum wage, with "local strikes against wage cuts and speed-ups."

The Nationalist party made a gain, polling 43,268 votes, against 31,376 in 1930.

The day was quiet and the election was held without any disorders. Hitler's National Socialist captured 43 of the total 160 seats in the Municipal Senate, placing them almost on an even basis with the Social Democrats, whose strength slumped from 60 seats to 46.

With the Nationalists, who will have nine seats, the National Socialists present a formidable right radical front. The Communists increased their mandates from 27 to 33.

4 Die; Arson Seen In Tenement Fire

26 Families Homeless, 7
Go to Hospital; Can of Gasoline Found.

New York, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—A pyromaniac used gasoline today to set fire to a Manhattan tenement house, causing a conflagration that cost 4 lives, sent 7 persons to the hospital and made 26 families homeless.

Police and firemen found a 5-gallon can of gasoline on the fourth floor of the building after the blaze had finally been extinguished. It was apparent, they said, that some one had set fire to the place.

Mrs. Regina Elinor, 46, was burned to death and her daughter, Pauline, 10, died several hours afterward. The other dead were Christy di Biasi, 18, and his sister, Mary, 18. Families driven out of the building by the flames were given relief by the Red Cross and the Salvation Army.

CHINESE CROWD BEATS WANG, FOREIGN CHIEF; NEW RIOTS BREAK OUT

Japan to Assure U. S. Peace Plan Followed

Answer to Stimson Note Drafted Holding Nippon
Has Refrained From Further Hostilities in Manchuria and Has Violated No Agreements.

Tokyo, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—A Japanese reply to United States Secretary of State Stimson, stressing that Japan "in common with the hope of the American Government," already has refrained from further hostilities in Manchuria, probably will be dispatched tomorrow.

The reply answers a note by Secretary Stimson concerning occupation of several Manchurian cities by Japanese troops.

The Japanese reply adds that Japan is taking every precaution to prevent any extension of trouble to avoid further complications and stresses its contention that Japan is abstaining from violating any international agreements. Assurance is given that every effort is being made to reach an amicable settlement with the Chinese.

The note this afternoon was drafted for final submission to the cabinet. Meanwhile, officials here expressed some concern over the serious situation faced by Japanese nationals in South China. Dispatches received from Canton and Hongkong report several have been killed as the result of anti-Japanese feeling.

In view of these reports the Cabinet cabled consuls urging them to prepare arrangements for an immediate evacuation of Nationals in the event the situation becomes worse.

At points where naval protection is easily given, local consuls were instructed to determine whether to order immediate withdrawal or to merely stand in readiness to leave.

At yesterday's cabinet meeting Minister of the Navy Kiyomasa Abo reported regarding the anti-Japanese agitation in South China and explained measures the navy was taking to cope with the situation. Baron Abo said he considered the area in the region of Nanking, Hankow and Shanghai especially menacing to the safety of Japanese Nationals.

RADICALS MAKE GAIN IN HAMBURG VOTING

German Discontent Believed Shown by Socialist and Red Increases.

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Swapping gains by Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party and by Communists in today's House of Burgesses election here coincided with the negotiations for Franco-German amity and cooperation by heads of the French and German governments at Berlin.

The radical parties' gains here were construed by observers as an indication of dissatisfaction with the present regime and as a warning to Chancellor Heinrich Brüning that he must turn his attention to the situation at home as well as abroad.

The National Socialists polled 202,465 votes today against 144,684 in the 1930 Reichstag election and 14,780 in the 1928 Burgess election.

The Communists polled 168,818 votes today against 135,279 in 1930. The Social Democrats were sustained chiefly by the Social Democrats and the People's party. The Social Democrats polled 214,509 votes, as compared with 240,984 in 1930 and the People's party 36,292, against 40,148 last year.

The Nationalist party made a gain, polling 43,268 votes, against 31,376 in 1930.

The day was quiet and the election was held without any disorders. Hitler's National Socialist captured 43 of the total 160 seats in the Municipal Senate, placing them almost on an even basis with the Social Democrats, whose strength slumped from 60 seats to 46.

With the Nationalists, who will have nine seats, the National Socialists present a formidable right radical front. The Communists increased their mandates from 27 to 33.

New Chaco Battles Claim Seven Lives

More Paraguayan Soldiers Reported Slain, Placing
Two-Day Toll at 13.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Fighting between Bolivian and Paraguayan troops in the Gran Chaco frontier district was announced by the ministry of war tonight. It was understood that seven Paraguayan soldiers had been killed.

The ministry advised said the fighting occurred near Samaklay. The first division commander reported that the clash was between patrols along the border.

Advice received Saturday at La Paz, Bolivia, said six Paraguayan soldiers had been killed in an attack on Bolivian troops on Agua Rica. No Bolivians were killed. The attackers later retired toward Nanawa.

Akron Moored to Mast After Test During Rain

Akron, Ohio, (Monday) Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Navy ship Akron was moored to her mast at 12:10 a. m. Eastern standard time, today after cruising through a fog and drizzling rain for 3 hours and 40 minutes in its third test flight.

The landing was delayed about an hour and a half because the huge portable mooring mast became stuck in the mud outside the dock.

Homes Burned.

Nanking, China, (Monday), Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister C. T. Wang was probably fatally injured today when he was attacked by a group of students who invaded the foreign office to voice their indignation at Wang's alleged failure to induce the League of Nations Council effectively to intervene in the Manchurian crisis.

Wang received several heavy blows on the head, his assailants using clubs and inkpots.

The assault upon the foreign minister was the climax of a demonstration by several hundred students, indignant at reports that the League of Nations had decided not to intervene in the struggle between Japan and China in Manchuria.

Office Wrecked In Attack.

The students paraded the streets, then rushed to the foreign office, forcing their way into Wang's office, which was wrecked, windows and furniture smashed to bits.

Wang's clothing was nearly torn off. He was rescued finally by a group of servants, who broke through a back window, carrying the foreign minister out the same way.

Before the parade reached the foreign office, friends warned Wang he was likely to be the object of the students' wrath. The foreign minister refused to seek shelter elsewhere, however, declaring "I shall remain at my post and attend to my duties."

Foreign office attaches said they believed Wang would not have escaped alive if his servants had not gone to his rescue.

The attack occurred about 10 a. m. today (9 p. m. Sunday E. S. T.).

Bitterness ran high in Nanking today owing to what agitators called the League of Nations' desertion of China's cause.

China Calls Out Troops.

Hongkong, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Declaring a state of emergency exists, the government late today called out troops to quell riotous mobs of Chinese at Kowloon, nearby on the mainland, after several days of anti-Japanese demonstrations. Police were armed with riot guns and ordered to shoot without warning, if necessary.

A crowd of Chinese entered the home of Shimizu Yashashita, a Japanese, in an isolated district of Kowloon, killing him, his wife, mother, two sons and a nursemaid. Only a 3-year-old baby was spared.

Police and soldiers arrived to find a mob of 1,000 Chinese wrecking the dwelling into the streets, some of the followed two Chinese were killed by bayonets of the soldiers. Ten were arrested.

Minor Outbreaks Follow.

Tonight comparative quiet was the rule. A few minor outbreaks occurred, however, and some Japanese goods were destroyed in street battles.

During the height of the disturbance many Japanese were attacked in isolated streets and injured sufficiently to require hospital treatment. Practically all Japanese shops have been wrecked and Japanese nationals are segregated in school buildings for protection.

With no more Japanese to attack the mobs turned their attention on Chinese shops selling Japanese goods and wrecked many of them. Chinese householders are throwing their Japanese manufactured household utensils into the streets, some of which present remarkable sights, being littered with unwanted property. Authorities used steamrollers to crush the discarded in order to facilitate removal.

Children Used by Mob.

Owing to the congested condition in parts of Hongkong the police task was most difficult. Call to halt demonstrations at dozens of places were received at the same time. Their task was also complicated by riot organizers who used children to throw stones and start demonstrations. One child was killed by a police bullet.

TARIFF ARGUMENTS IN PARLEY VISIONED

Attack on U. S. Customs Is Predicted as Pan-American Conference Nears.

(Associated Press.) America's tariff may be the target for a determined attack at the Fourth Pan-American Commercial Conference opening here October 5.

Mexico is considered by Latin-American observers a likely leader in the campaign, as reports from Mexico City have indicated her delegation will appear with the avowed intention of attacking United States customs levies.

Six delegates and several assistants will form the Mexican group, the size being taken here as a token Mexico views seriously the opportunity of presenting her trade opinions.

Mute on Tariff. Pan-American Union officials, busy preparing to greet early arriving delegations this week, declined to predict definitely the trend of the tariff discussions.

They said, however, they expected the conference to "attempt to reconcile the principle of customs tariffs with the necessities of international trade."

"There will be consideration as to the steps which may be taken to bring this about," a Union announcement said, "including bilateral or multilateral treaties, most-favored nation clauses, or provisions in customs tariffs for flexible rates with the object of equalizing basic foreign and domestic production costs."

The fundamental purpose of the conference was said by officials to be "to consider all obstacles, direct and indirect, that tend to hinder commerce and the measures that may be adopted to promote trade between American republics."

Problems Held Trade Barriers. "Consequently all the topics contained in the program involve problems that might be construed to constitute barriers to the free and rapid movement of trade. Any advance that may be made in the solution of these problems would represent a step forward in the promotion of inter-American commerce, inasmuch as it would tend to strengthen trade and relieve it of present hindrances."

In this connection, officials suggested formation of an organization or organizations to give weight to decisions made at the conference with respect to trade barriers.

How effective such organizations could be was considered with more division of opinion. Some observers emphasized the unofficial character of many of the delegations and that conference actions were not binding upon any of the governments represented.

Also, they cited as a supporting factor that only six chiefs of diplomatic missions were delegates.

These observers saw more possibilities of gains in trade promotion through other than official channels, such as standardization of commodities, uniformity in the definition of trade terms and exchange of information on trade possibilities.

Tourist Travel Called Aid.

Travel as an aid to commerce was considered by union officials as a topic beneficial to both continents.

"Consideration will be given as to how both governmental and unofficial agencies may assist in the promotion of this form of international trade," they said.

"Entirely aside from the many advantages of closer contact, better understanding and more sympathetic appreciation of the aspirations and ideals of foreign people that inevitably result from tourist travel," the union held, "the expenditures of foreign travelers has become an important factor in the national economy of many countries, and a major item in their international balance of payments."

The conference will discuss transportation and communication, consular procedure and customs regulations, financial problems and juridical questions and other topics.

Montero Camp Joyful
As Aid Wins Election

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Forces of Juan Esteban Montero, presidential candidate, claimed comfort tonight from the victory of Elias Errazuriz Larraín, Montero supporter, in a special election as deputy for Santiago today.

Errazuriz Larraín polled a majority of 4,000 votes over the second candidate, also an independent Montero supporter. The result was heralded in the Montero camp as indicative of next Sunday's voting. Leaders estimated that the vote would be a landslide for the president-elect.

Alexander Gaiter, who is under sentence of death, has been released by the recent naval revolt, received 3,152 votes. His candidacy was backed by Communists.

Telles Reported Slated
As Ambassador in London

Mexico City, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—Miguel Telles, who is ending his ambassadorship to Washington, was said in well-informed quarters today to be scheduled as the first Mexican Ambassador to Great Britain.

Although official comment was withheld, it was said the Mexican Legation here would soon be raised to embassies.

Bank in Caracas Meets Run.

Caracas, Venezuela, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—The Royal Bank of Canada closed for the week-end last night after a fourteen-hour period in which it paid out $500,000 in deposits. The withdrawals were caused by a panic resulting from rumors published locally. The bank manager said the institution would continue to meet all demands.

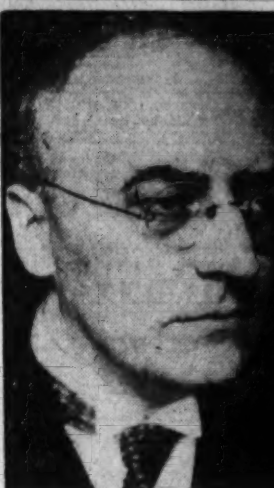

Tax Not to End Nitrate Combine.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Approximately 50 business and industrial leaders advanced the opinion today that the tax now being made on the American-controlled Comanch nitrate combine will not succeed in dissolving it, barring unseen developments.

Chile Greets Brazilian Filers.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—The Brazilian good-will filers landed their plane, Duque de Gaiás, at the civil airport, Los Cerrillos, today and were greeted by a crowd of 300 persons. The Brazilian Ambassador and Chilean aviation officials gave them an official welcome.

PIERRE LAVAL.

CAPITAL ANXIOUSLY WAITING FOR LAVAL

Experts Assembling Data for His Coming Visit to Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover is getting his official house in order so he can talk over the world's most pressing problems with a dark-mustached Frenchman who has a reputation for frankness.

The foreign visitor is Premier Laval. In Berlin now, he is expected in this country in little more than three weeks.

Already State Department experts are assembling teams of data on international problems—including disarmament—likely to be discussed. These should be helpful when the two notables try to bring closer together the positions of their governments on world economics.

The biggest point of difference in the past has been how far politics should enter into the realm of business. The United States, with no particular worry about her borders, has held that economics should be settled as economics. France, having been invaded twice in 50 years, leans heavily on tried political principles.

Hoover Awaits Reasons.

Despite the differences in attitudes, the United States and France have controlled the bulk of the world's gold supply for more than a year. Mr. Hoover is aware of the reasons for the French position that her borders must be protected before there can be talk of international action. He remarked during the reparations negotiations that if the United States only 13 years ago had faced Germany for four years in trenches extending from Baltimore to Buffalo the position of America might be different.

Mr. Hoover feels, however, there is a common meeting ground on which France and the United States can conduct future discussions. That is a ground of friendly understanding growing out of frank talks between officials.

Officials here are keenly interested in the Berlin conference since the same economic questions under consideration there promise to figure largely in the discussions of Premier Laval and the President. Besides the usual press reports, the government watchers will also have confidential dispatches from Ambassador Sackett to the State Department.

Second Opportunity.

The Laval visit will give Mr. Hoover a second opportunity since taking office to talk to the head of a great European power. He and Premier Macdonald discussed naval limitation two years ago sitting on a log at the Chief Executive's Rapidan camp.

Out of those informal discussions came the plan for the London Naval Conference. Speculation is current as to whether international results of equal significance will follow the Laval visit.

Seldom has Washington looked forward with such evident interest to the visit of a foreign notable as it does to the coming of the outspoken Frenchman with his reported predilection for white neckties.

The heads of the French and American governments will converse through an interpreter. The premier speaks only in French tongue and President Hoover feels his own knowledge of French is inadequate.

Walnut Springs Church Plans for Home-Coming

Special to The Washington Post. Strassburg, Va., Sept. 27.—The fifth annual homecoming of the Walnut Springs Christian Church in Shenandoah County, Va., will take place next Sunday. The Walnut Springs Church is the oldest edifice of the Disciples in Virginia.

The services, which will begin at 11 o'clock, with a basket lunch intermission at 12:30 p. m., will be participated in by the Rev. J. D. Hamaker, the Rev. Arthur Wake and the Rev. F. B. Sapp, pastor of the church.

LINDBERGH TO MAKE WUHU SURVEY

League Health Expert Will Accompany Filers on Trip to Begin Tomorrow.

Nanking, China, Sept. 28 (Monday) (A.P.).—A heavy rain today caused postponement until tomorrow of a third flood survey flight planned by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to Hankow and the Wuhu district southwest of this city.

Dr. Heng Liu, head of the national flood relief commission's health staff, asked the famous American and his wife to fly over the area adjacent to Hankow to carry out survey work similar to that which has given the commission such valuable information concerning Kiangsu Province conditions.

With his usual promptitude, Lindbergh has agreed to take off this morning, but the rain prevented. Accompanying the flying colonel and his wife will be Dr. Borric, health expert of the League of Nations, who is visiting in China.

They will stop at Wuhu to inspect relief work going on there before continuing to Hankow, where they expect to spend several days making surveys over Hupsh Province, especially along the Han River, where conditions were believed bad. The commission lacks any definite information on conditions in the Han River district.

Officials here were in praise of the Lindberghs' health staff, and applauded their readiness to undertake work in the Hankow district, for conditions there were extremely bad with disease, especially cholera, rampant.

Col. Lindbergh yesterday refused to discuss the trying conditions he has encountered during the survey flights within the last few days. He referred questions to his report on conditions he made to the commission.

In it he told of many thousands of square miles of land under water, inhabitants living in boats or on roof tops and crowded on dykes, and of dykes he made to the commission.

"September 21 we made a reconnaissance of the flooded area between the Grand Canal and the Yellow Sea. The water was held back only by Talchow on the south almost to the old bed of the Yellow River on the north, with a total area of 8,000 square miles badly flooded."

Highway Badly Flooded. "The walled city of Hingwa was badly flooded and the surrounding fields were covered with several feet of water. The nearest road from the flood water was held back only by 25 miles south of the city. Literally hundreds of small villages throughout the entire area are standing in water, with many inns covered all the roofs. Those inhabitants still remaining are living in small boats moored in the streets. In many instances walls of the houses had collapsed."

"When we flew over this area the wind had whipped up the waves over the fields and the few remaining dykes were being eroded away rapidly. Thousands of refugees had congregated on dykes lining the Grand Canal and on an uncompleted road just south of the flood area."

With High Velocity. "The city of Fowning on the north was badly flooded. On the east the flood waters had almost reached the sea and in the far northwest section of the flood water was held back only by dykes which originally were constructed to keep out the high tide of the sea. Water was pouring with a high velocity through numerous breaches in the dykes. There were no signs of receding levels east of the canal."

"September 22 we flew over the area west of the Grand Canal. In the upper section of the flood water was receding and water was within the river banks. Wherever the floods had drained off inhabitants were replowing their fields and restoring what was left of their homes. Crops in the area of the actual flood have been completely destroyed."

"As we approached the Grand Canal from the west there was very little sign of receding of the flood and none of the fields had drained sufficiently to be plowed. In all there were several thousand square miles west of the Grand Canal completely flooded and much more where crops had been severely damaged."

Covered Two Districts. "September 23 we covered two districts. First, we flew southwest to Nanking, over the cities of Taipei, Wuhu, Kaohsun and Suifu. East of the Yangtze the district was badly flooded. The city of Wuhu had suffered the worst. We saw standing water in the streets of the walled city of Taipei, and in Kaohsun and Suifu. In the country districts many houses were in water almost to their roofs, and many had collapsed. There were, however, high points of land and hills much closer to the flooded areas than in the Grand Canal district and many shelters had constructed temporary shelters just above the water line."

"The second area visited was west of the Yangtze, in the district around and south of Chao Lake. Floods had again caused great damage in hundreds of square miles in this district. The city of Chaohien, however, was only partially flooded."

Gangster's Body Found Near Chicago Cemetery

Chicago, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The body of Joseph Pellegrino, said by police to be a minor gangster, was found today at the side of a highway near Arlington Cemetery, on the outskirts of Chicago's West Side. He had been shot to death.

Pellegrino was reported to be the last person to see Police Lieut. Rocco Passella, the "Joe" driver of Melrose Park, before the officer disappeared June 15. Passella is believed to have been slain.

Weather Delays Moyle And Allen at Fairbanks

Seattle, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California aviators and unsuccessful trans-Pacific nonstop fliers, tonight were reported grounded at Fairbanks, Alaska, awaiting favorable weather before attempting a Fairbanks-Tacoma hop.

Richard Fenton, business manager of the flight, said Moyle had called that the weather was very unfavorable and that the Californians would wait for it to clear up. They flew to Fairbanks Friday from Solomon Beach, near Nome, being forced down by adverse air conditions.

let while a majority of those arrested were mere youths. Exemplary sentences were imposed.

Authorities said they suspected Communist influences were behind the rioting which the Chinese pursued sporadically with terrible vindictiveness. Even troops have been bombarded with bricks and flower pots.

Military authorities assured the Japanese consul he would have full protection. Some Japanese, who have been segregated at different points, have decided to return home.

British Warship on Duty.

At Kowloon two British destroyers were berthed alongside the wharves as protection for the big Japanese liner, Mama, Maru, and the large Japanese shipping offices. Although these have not been damaged several branch offices have been wrecked.

Some fear was expressed that Chinese resentment of police measures might produce a general anti-foreign movement but there has been no definite indication of this.

Nanking, China, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—Japanese military planes are continuing attacks on Chinese trains between Peiping and Mukden, a government spokesman charged tonight in commenting on the Japanese occupation.

"The Japanese militarists suffered a severe defeat before the League of Nations council when Japan's delegate undertook to promise withdrawal of troops from Manchuria," said the spokesman.

Wang, foreign ministry spokesman, told the Kuomintang News Agency, "The Japanese militarists were forced to abandon their plans because of increasing pressure of world opinion, as shown at Geneva and in the American Government's note to Tokyo."

Must Make Reparations. "Negotiations for a settlement can be started only after China's sovereignty over Manchuria is restored, but the incident can not be closed until reparations are made."

Geneva, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—The League of Nations assembly, faced with a deadlock in efforts to settle the Manchurian conflict, will remain in session until Tuesday and the council probably will extend its hearings until Saturday.

Both the assembly and the council decided to stay in session until a solution was assured. The Japanese have given assurance that all troops that can be moved will be returned to within the railroad zone."

San Francisco, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Carrying banners reading "down with Japanese imperialism" and "all Chinese must unite to fight Japan," a crowd of thousands of Chinese paraded in protest here today against the recent occupation of Manchurian cities by Japanese troops.

Japanese Airplanes Active.

Peiping, China, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—A foreign official dispatch from Mukden said today the Japanese had two airplane squadrons there and were repainting with Japanese insignia 40 or 50 planes captured from the Chinese.

The principal Chinese banks were expected to reopen tomorrow.

Foreign telegrams from Harbin reported that Japanese airplanes occasionally flew over the city but that north Manchuria was quiet.

Havana, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Several thousand of Havana's Chinese colony, said to be the largest of any city in the world outside of China, gathered today in and around their theater to protest Japanese occupation of Manchuria.

Urge War on Japan.

Leaders of the various Chinese societies spoke and at the conclusion it was agreed to cable China's president, Mr. Hanking, asking an immediate declaration of war on Japan and offering "unconditional support" and "our blood in defense of the national honor."

Cienfuegos last night a large number of Chinese assembled and declared themselves ready to sail for China and war.

Tommo Watanabe, commercial attaché at the Japanese consulate here, defended Japan's action in statements given to today's newspapers. Hundreds of thousands of Japanese were in danger in Manchuria, he said, and the army had to act.

Sanders Returns With Wife's Body

Funeral Service Will Be Conducted Today at Mayflower Hotel.

New York, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Everett Sanders, secretary to President Coolidge for four years, returned tonight with the body of his wife, who died at the American Hospital in Paris September 20.

A funeral service will be held at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington tomorrow. The body then will be taken to Terre Haute, Ind., former home of Mr. Sanders, for burial.

BEER AND BONUSES
URGED BY VETERANS

Twenty-ninth Division Would Abolish Interest on Loans; Hodges New President.

Abury Park, N. J., Sept. 27 (A.P.). The Twenty-ninth Division Association, in the closing sessions of its convention today voted in favor of the immediate payment of cash bonuses to World War veterans, and for the legalization of light wines and beer.

The association voted to hold its next convention in Norfolk, Va. The bonus payments proposal was voted after considerable debate.

Michael Britkopf, of Newark, adjutant of the association, placed the immediate payment resolution before the convention. Col. Pittsburgh Minnigrode of New York, immediately attacked the resolution as "unwise" and cited the action of the American Legion on the subject.

Two to One for Bonus. Richard C. Meade, of Cranford, N. J., joined Minnigrode in his effort to limit opposition, saying the convention should not be guided by the action of the legion, but should follow the advice of President Hoover and his stated opposition against any further demands on the United States Treasury.

When the resolution was put to a vote the adherents of the immediate payment of bonuses won, 24 to 12, the voting was by yeas.

The convention also voted in favor of the reduction or elimination of interest charges on bonus-certificates loans. This resolution offered by the Hudson County (N. J.) delegation was opposed on the floor.

and stay there for a thorough discussion. I believe we should really find out what the American people want. That will end it, one way or another."

The method of finding out, Stevens said, was up to the States.

Despite the froth of words over prohibition and beer, Stevens said his conferences in the Capital were more concerned with rehabilitation measures to be discussed in legislative halls this winter on the bonus question, he said.

"The President made a fine presentation, and it was cordially received, but I realize that, even so, many bills for the bonus probably will be introduced at the next session of Congress. However, it is my belief the Detroit action was the considered judgment of the legion, that the delegates truly presented the sentiment of the people back home."

(United Press.)

Agitation for legalization of beer was met yesterday by announcement of an ambitious campaign to organize the American Legion, labor unions and the legal and medical professions, groups all classed as wet.

Ernest H. Cherrington, chairman of the board of strategy of the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment, announced the plan.

Its purpose is to enlist the support of prohibitionists among the principal organizations that have recorded themselves in favor of amendment or repeal of the prohibition laws, or have suggested referenda on them.

Cherrington's board of strategy takes the view that prohibitionists' sentiment is stronger among leaders of these organizations than among the general memberships. Hence it has been decided to launch a series of drives to reach "various special interests and special groups" throughout the Nation.

It was the beer boom, and the American Legion vote for a referendum on modification of the liquor laws, apparently, that caused the board of strategy to draft its plan.

"It is self-evident," Cherrington said in a statement announcing his campaign, "that the action taken by the delegates to the legion convention was not representative of the whole body of legionnaires, but was rather the expression of merely a personal opinion on the part of a very small percentage of the men mustered into service for the late war."

"The great body of these ex-soldiers who have not found opportunity for expression through their organization will be reached by special endeavors to be made by those organizations which are fighting today's battle against alcoholism and against the liquor enemies of the Constitution."

Local Groups Are Goal. Similarly with the labor unions, Cherrington said, the campaign will try to reach "the hundreds of thousands of members of local unions whose support of prohibition is being ignored by the professional labor leaders, who assume the right to speak for the workers of the country without making any serious attempt to ascertain the will of the millions who constitute the local labor unions."

"The drive among the lawyers, Cherrington said, "will afford the better element at the bar an opportunity for personal enlistment in behalf of respect for law and obedience to law," and the drive among physicians will be the first major attempt in recent years to obtain their support for prohibition.

"In each of these groups, the American Legion, the workers of the country, the attorneys and the physicians," Cherrington said, "the members of the board of strategy believe that the majority is in favor of the maintenance of the eighteenth amendment and of its proper enforcement."

HILLQUIT CALLS PAY SLASHES UNUSUAL

"Planned Production" Urged by Socialist Leader; D., L. & W. R. R. Cuts Salaries.

(Associated Press.)
The Socialist party yesterday called the past week "a black week in American history." Through its national chairman, Morris Hillquit, the party called the announcement of wage cuts in the steel and rubber industries was "an ominous signal of a general slashing of wages."
As the Socialists urged reorganization of industry on the principle of planned production, to be carried on as a social function for the benefit of the whole body of our people, the United States Chamber of Commerce issued a statement quoting Mr. Hillquit as saying "the 'idiotic idea' of the dole."
New York, Sept. 27 (A.P.)—The Lackawanna Railroad tonight announced a reduction of from 7 1/2 to 10 per cent in the salaries of officers receiving more than $6,000 annually, and a short-time schedule for all other employees, effective October 1.
The new working schedule calls for a two-day layoff each month without pay, which, the announcement said, was equivalent to a wage reduction of 62.3 per cent.
Some time ago the railroad placed certain groups of employees on a short-time basis. They will not be affected by the new arrangement.

JURORS MAY PROBE INTIMIDATION LINK

Impede a certain witness, in the case of the United States against Robert Barrett and others.
Mr. Pratt said he could make no move to suspend Barrett or to handle the case in any way because "nothing had been brought to his attention—a position he has held throughout the long days of investigation of his department."
As a matter of fact, affairs were taken from his hands when the Department of Justice was called into the case. Early in the investigation it was held that too much confusion would be caused through separate inquiries of the police department itself and the Department of Justice.
The case in the federal court is supposed to have testified before the ill-fated July grand jury involves his arrest in connection with the Garden T. Shoppe robbery in which Mrs. Elizabeth Jaynes was slain. Mr. Barrett is said to have told the grand jury he was beaten when two headquarter detectives and two men from the Eighth Precinct arrested him at his apartment on Thirteenth street northwest.
Police were never able to connect Barrett with the Jaynes case and he was released three days after his arrest.

PRESIDENT'S GUESTS SIT AROUND LOG FIRE

Col. Roosevelt's Possible Transfer to Philippines Brings Speculation.
Luray, Va., Sept. 27 (A.P.)—Autumn's chill laid a cool hand today upon President Hoover's camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains.
Guests confined their activities largely to keeping warm by huddling around a big log fire after last night's frosty breezes.
Speculation over the topics of conversation centered largely upon the possible transfer of Col. Theodore Roosevelt from Porto Rico to the Philippines as governor general.
The governor of the island was a guest, along with Chairman Bingham, of the Senate territories committee, which handles Porto Rican legislation.

From Col. Roosevelt has come neither confirmation nor denial of reports he would go to Manila. A shrug has been his answer. Once he said: "That statement will have to come from headquarters."
Beer and the soldiers' bonus were other possible subjects for discussion. Col. Roosevelt, with Gov. Brucker of Michigan, also a guest, supported the President's bonus stand at the Detroit convention of the American Legion. To them he expected to go Mr. Hoover's thanks.
Col. Roosevelt long has been an advocate of legal brewing. One of his favorite stories hinges upon a stand he took with a political comrade in New York City.
"We got the beer, but not the beer," Roosevelt reminded.
Secretary Reineck's recent announcement of the survey of the Agricultural Department of the possible effects of breeding upon agriculture was considered likely to be discussed, in view of agitation.
The President plans to leave the camp early tomorrow for the return to the Capital. Among the other guests today were Mrs. Bingham and Mrs. Brucker. H. P. Wolfe, Ohio publisher, and Mrs. Wolfe; Fred P. Shedd, Philadelphia editor, and Mrs. Shedd.

PUBLIC MUST OFFER SAVING OF BILLIONS

JOBS, GIFFORD SAYS Predicted by Klein
Four Recommendations for National Employment Relief Told on Radio.

(Associated Press.)
Immediate State and local organization to handle the unemployment situation was urged last night by Walter S. Gifford, chairman of the President's organization on unemployment relief, in his first "get ready" speech in anticipation of the five-weeks' drive for relief funds that Gifford spoke over national networks of both great broadcasting companies. He recommended:
"1. That a State-wide committee of leading citizens be appointed by the governor of each State.
"2. That an emergency committee be organized in every community where there is an unemployment problem.
"3. That this local committee inform itself as to the probable unemployment load this winter and develop ways and means for meeting it through providing employment or relief.
"4. That each local committee inform its State committee as to its organization and means for meeting it. An important point in Gifford's speech was his argument that the public must itself provide work as well as charity relief.
"While a great many employees are working only part time," he said, "a high percentage of those gainfully employed are working full time, either on full wages and salaries or with reductions no greater than the decrease in the cost of living.
"They constitute a most important part of the buying public and are a main source of work. They can, if they will, repair their houses, improve their places, give work or buy things which give work in manufacture. Business, whether big or little, can spread its available work so as to make it go around to the greatest number, and it should, under present conditions, make special effort to sell its goods, but, broadly speaking, it can not give additional work unless the consumer buys its products.
"If the public buys neither work nor goods, it is the public that is indirectly discharging men. If the public wants work and goods, it is the public that is hiring men.
"This depression will not be ended by a panacea. It is your depression and mine, and when and how we get out of it lies in each person's power to some degree. Each must consult his own conscience as to whether his course in this emergency is helpful or not."
Gifford stressed the emergency character of the depression and said he was not sure whether such infrequent recurring emergencies should not be met by emergency organizations rather than by permanent ones.
He explained the work his committee is doing, giving a national background for the collection of funds by local agencies. He repeated his recent statements of confidence that the relief situation would be met.

WORKER KILLS WIFE WHO JEERED AT HIM

Stung by Ignorance Taunts,
Man Drops Senseless
Body in Sewer.

Chicago, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—John Choral, 36, confessed tonight, police said, that he knocked his wife unconscious, sewed her up in a sack and dropped her down a sewer manhole, where she died of suffocation.

"She was better educated than I," police quoted Choral as saying, "and she was always making fun of me. She jeered at me and called me ignorant during a quarrel in our home on the night of June 3. She was a school teacher in the old country."

"I hit her and she fell into the floor. I thought maybe she was dead, but I didn't know. Any way, I wrapped her up in a blanket, sewed a sack around her and carried her around the corner to the manhole," Choral is a laborer.

Mr. and Mrs. Choral disappeared from their home on the South Side nearly four months ago, the landlord finding their apartment deserted when he entered to collect overdue rent. Neighbors said they had not seen the couple for several weeks, and a desultory search was made.

Early on the morning of July 4, after the search for the missing couple had been abandoned for two weeks, Samuel Sorak, 17, walking along the street, noticed that a manhole cover did not fit down tightly on a sewer opening. He investigated and saw the form of a body heavily wrapped in cloth.

Terrified, the youth fled, and did not reveal his gruesome discovery for some time. Finally, he told a friend and the friend told police. Neighbors recalled that Mr. and Mrs. Choral had quarreled frequently, and the missing husband was suspected immediately. Several persons were questioned, but no arrests were made.

The search for Choral was continued for nearly three months, until he finally was discovered Saturday at Beaver Dam, Wis.

Brought back to Chicago today, the husband first denied knowledge of the killing, police said, but broke down under questioning and made a complete confession.

Spain Will Compel Land Development

First Step in Agrarian Reforms Is to Start at Once.

Madrid, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The government announced today that compulsory development of untitled lands, the first step in the agrarian reforms, would begin immediately.

The development will start in Andalusia and Extremadura, where the unemployment situation among farm workers is most acute. Commissions directed by the police will investigate distribution of lands among workers' societies which can use farm machinery in conjunction with land owners.

After the next harvest the lands will be returned to the owners without indemnity, pending further action by the assembly on agrarian bills.

3 Die in Plane Crash Near Emergency Field

Fonda, N. Y., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Three men were killed early tonight as an airplane crashed on a hill near an emergency landing field four miles northwest of here. The dead: Joseph William Ellis, Jr., 24, of Buffalo; Samuel S. Ellis, of Buffalo; Dr. R. Bartow Read, the pilot, New York.

The ship struck the ground with great force and bounced along the surface about 300 feet before splintering into a mass of wreckage against a stone wall.

Heligoland Vanishing As Engineering Fails

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—Heligoland is tumbling down slowly but steadily, despite every effort of German engineers to check its disintegration.

Last week some 2,000 cubic meters of decayed rock fell from the sandstone bluffs on the north side of the island and vanished into the sea. It was the largest single slide recorded in recent years.

Enormous sums have been spent in the last few years to check the erosion, but geologists believe that eventually the island which the former Kaiser's government got by trading Zanzibar, in East Africa, to Britain will be entirely gone.

WOMEN RIVAL MEN IN ECONOMIC FIELDS

Labor Department Statistics Disclose Preference for Feminine Workers.

Changing attitudes, and "a breaking down of false ideas and prejudices," have been responsible for a fourfold increase in women wage earners in the past half century, according to Miss Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

Figures made public by Miss Sherman yesterday, showed that women in paid jobs have more than doubled since 1900. In 1930, she disclosed, there were 10,778,794 women in gainful occupation.

She cited these figures as "convincing evidence that economic need has brought about a complete change in attitude, doing away with the stigma that still attacked some decades after the Civil War to women working outside the home."

She pointed out that women are apt to be given preference over men during the current period of unemployment because of their lower wage standards, adding: "There is need, therefore, of another changed attitude throughout the country, to avert the grave danger of men's wages being lowered or of their growing disadvantage in job chances."

Clothing Is Clew In Collings Probe

Articles Found on Beach May Have Been Left by "Pirates."

New York, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—On the beach at Center Island, Long Island, today, deputy sheriffs found several articles of clothing which may have been discarded by one of the two "pirates" who murdered Benjamin F. Collings.

Two pairs of pants, a leather belt with silver or nickel buckle, a white handkerchief and a blue bathing suit were found near the place where Collings' widow says she was attacked in a canoe by the older of two men who had abducted her after trussing up her husband and throwing him off his cruiser, the Penguin.

Assistant District Attorney Frederick Munder said he regarded the clothing as the most important clew that had been turned up in the three and a half weeks since Collings was slain.

The find brought new life into attempts to solve the fantastic mystery, as it was considered likely that the clothing could be traced to its owner through trade marks.

Estranged Mate Kills Wife and Her Mother

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Refused permission to see his three children, C. B. Coleman, 40, today shot and killed his estranged wife, Sarah, 28, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Maud A. Swearingen, 63, and fired two pistol shots into his own body in an attempt to commit suicide.

Coleman fired a bullet into his head but did not inflict a fatal wound. He walked into the yard, reloaded his pistol, entered the house again and fired a bullet just above his heart. Hospital attendants said he may recover. Coleman's three children, ranging in age from 3 to 8 years, witnessed the shooting.

House Newcomer Has Dry Solution

Pettingill Offers Unique Plan to Evade Issue in 1932.

(Associated Press.) A new representative from Indiana yesterday suggested a way he believes the country can vote on prohibition and yet keep it out of the 1932 presidential campaign.

Samuel B. Pettengill (Democrat), Indiana, elected to the House last November, issued a statement agreeing that "prohibition is bound to get into" the next campaign. Then he proposed:

"That Congress this winter adopt a resolution for the repeal or amendment of the eighteenth amendment; that the resolution provide that it be submitted for ratification or rejection by conventions in the several States called for the sole purpose of passing upon this single question, and further that the resolution provide that such conventions be chosen after January 1, 1933."

The effect, he said, will be to take the "whole question" out of the next campaign, leaving the issues strictly those of economics.

First Skyscraper Falls to Wreckers

Chicago Structure Built in 1884 Proved Skeleton Frame Method.

Chicago, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—The world's first skyscraper started to crumble under wreckers' pick-axes today. It was erected at the corner of Monroe and La Salle streets in 1884, a few years after Empress Eugenie invested her celebrated hair.

William Le Baron Jenney, famous architect, now long dead, designed the skeleton framework of the building, which took the weight off the walls and made it possible for later architects to send buildings soaring safely to almost unlimited heights.

For 47 years Jenney's skyscraper served as the Home Insurance Building, while battles both hilarious and caustic raged over it, until finally the wreckers invaded its brownstone walls to make way for the 42-story Field Building, which will be Chicago's largest office structure.

"Tariff Beggars" Flayed by Walsh

Moses' Plea for New England Block Draws Tariff Reply From Montanan.

(Associated Press.) The recent suggestion of Senator Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, for a New England States bloc in the Senate to protect their millions of dollars of investments drew a retort yesterday from Senator Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, that the people of that section are persistent beggars for tariff favors.

Walsh, in a statement through the Democratic national committee, said: "Considering that they (New England people) have been times out of mind, and still are, persistent beggars for tariff favors, out of which they have made those imperiled millions, it might be retorted that the impudence is rather to be found in the Moses crowd than in the unexpected efforts of the people accused to save themselves from the depression from which they have been suffering for ten years."

NEW DISCORD STIRS
EPISCOPAL CHURCHFundamentalist - Modernist
Row Enters Convention;
Adjournment Near.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Injection of the fundamentalist-modernist fight into the convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church today offered another moot question for delegates already at odds over divorce and other important religious differences.

Henry S. Booth, lay delegate from Detroit, made discussion of the strict interpretation of the Bible possible by offering a resolution in the House of Deputies seeking to relieve ministers from the obligation of such a presentation of either creeds or the Bible.

The resolution was not considered kindly by those delegates hopeful of adjournment Wednesday, the tentative date already set.

Appointment of a conference committee to attempt to smooth out difference of opinion was a possibility offered by leaders. Creation of such a group was advocated yesterday after a committee of the House of Bishops rejected a proposed matrimonial canon, approved Friday by the House of Deputies, which would have established ecclesiastical courts with authority to grant communicant rights to divorced persons.

Substitutes Proposed.

The house of bishops committee offered a substitute proposal which, agreeing in most respects with the deputies' measure, differs as to the status of remarried divorced persons.

Other matters upon which the convention has not definitely acted are numerous.

The so-called high and low churchmen are not agreed upon the use of the American Missal, mass book. A difference of opinion on the wisdom and advisability of retaining the eighteenth amendment to its present form has been admitted.

In addition, the Rev. G. Floyd Rogers, clerical deputy from Asheville, N. C., is pressing for consideration of his resolution, which calls upon the church to request Congress to establish a Federal board for the supervision of motion pictures.

The house of bishops has not acted upon a resolution introduced by Bishop G. Ashton Oldham, of Albany, N. Y., requesting that Congress amend the naturalization laws in order that candidates for citizenship may not be required to "choose between god and country."

Refers to Citizenship.

The resolution refers to the decision of the United States Supreme Court which denied citizenship to Prof. Clyde D. Macintosh and Miss Marie E. Bland, on the grounds they declined to express a willingness to bear arms.

The deputies already have defeated a resolution of a similar nature, but couched in stronger language, which would have "repudiated" the high court.

A threatened dispute between the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies over election of two suffragan and one missionary bishop was dissolved after a secret meeting of the deputies, who felt they had not had proper consideration in the election of the three.

The deputies ratified the election by the bishops of Suffragan Bishops Salinas of Mexico and John Boyd Bentley, of Alaska, and Missionary Bishop Fred Bartlett, of North Dakota.

The consecration of Suffragan Bentley and Salinas in St. John's Cathedral on Tuesday will be the last of a series of colorful and impressive church spectacles in connection with the convention.

Regular convention business sessions will be held tomorrow after a Sunday holiday.

Idle in Arkansas
Promise to Work

Cool Weather, Not Threat of Jail, Forces Decision to Pick Cotton.

Helena, Ark., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Cool weather, rather than the threat of fall sentences, today was credited with having produced a change in heart among unemployed looters, who promised to go voluntarily into the fields tomorrow as cotton pickers.

Officers inaugurated a drive several days ago to force looters into the fields because of a shortage of labor.

Meanwhile the idea spread, officials in other cities having taken similar steps to force unemployed to work at various pursuits. At Pine Bluff, Ark., police rounded up 50 unemployed men and started a community turnip patch of five acres.

The turnips and greens, when harvested, will be used to feed the unemployed.

Texarkana, Tex., officials posted a "no looting" notice on the streets and announced, "A great big rock pile needs a lot of work done."

RUSSIA DENOUNCED FOR PERSECUTIONS

Dr. Walsh Tells Holy Name Soviets Imprison and Kill Priests.

A scathing denunciation of the "godless philosophy" of Soviet Russia was contained in an address written by Dr. Edmund Walsh, of Georgetown University and presented by Thomas Trobey of East Falls Church, Va., at the Diocesan Convention of the Holy Name Society at Winchester, Va., yesterday.

The convention was opened yesterday morning by the Right Rev. A. J. Brennan, Bishop of Richmond who celebrated high mass in the Sacred Heart Church. This was followed by a communion breakfast at the George Washington Hotel.

The Rev. Edward A. Brennan, spiritual director, Edwin J. Lee, and Edward L. Stephens made addresses at a business meeting held in the Handley School. Following the meeting a luncheon was given by the ladies of the Sacred Heart Church.

Election of officers for the coming year were held at the afternoon session at the Handley School. Those elected were Dally Walsh, of Norfolk, Va., president; Timothy Halloran, of Clifton Forge, Va., vice president; Joseph L. Dugan, of Clarendon, Va., secretary; Thomas E. Dyson, of Alexandria, Va., treasurer; and John Arndt, of Richmond, Va., financial secretary.

Mayor F. A. Shryock delivered the address of welcome at the afternoon session. He was introduced by M. M. Lynch, dean of the Winchester bar. Other speakers were J. O. Martin, retiring president; the Very Rev. Thomas J. Conlon, national director of the society, and Bishop Brennan.

Clifton Forge, Va., defeated Alexandria by four votes in the bid for the next State convention. Solemn benediction was given at the Sacred Heart Church in closing the convention.

According to Dr. Walsh's statement: "It is impossible to compute exactly the number of archbishops, bishops, priests and laymen of the Orthodox Russian Church who have suffered or died for their religious principles. By some the number has been estimated conservatively at 8,000. Hundreds of priests and bishops still are held captive in unspeakable misery, either on Solovetsky Island or in hidden dungeons of the secret police."

"Since the inauguration of the revolution more than one-half the Catholic clergy have disappeared. The whole affair is a revolting page of a long series of horrors in the history of man's inhumanity to man—murder, starvation, exile, imprisonment."

"This antireligious campaign in Russia is not an isolated conflict between church and state regarding rights and jurisdiction—it is a deliberate effort to abolish God, first from Russian soil, then from every land under the sun, including our own United States of America."

"The opening slogan in a notorious Russian magazine, 'We have destroyed the earthly caesars, now we shall destroy the heavenly ones,' is a warning showing the universal scope of religious hate concentrated at Moscow to burst in cyclonic fury on the whole wide world. There are no geographical frontiers to sovietism—its subjects are not numbered, but are mankind in the mass."

Details Are Bared
In Dietrich Suit

Mrs. Von Sternberg Charged
Hint of Divorce Suit, Paper Declares.

New York, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The New York American says it has obtained the details of a $100,000 libel action brought against Marlene Dietrich, German film actress, by Mrs. Joseph von Sternberg, wife of the motion picture director.

Two suits have been filed by Mrs. von Sternberg. One is for $500,000 for alienation of her husband's affections. The other is for libel. They are expected to bring Miss Dietrich into Supreme Court here on October 5.

The paper says the libel action is based on a purported interview with Miss Dietrich, published in a German language newspaper in Vienna. Mrs. von Sternberg charges the article insinuated her husband was about to sue for divorce.

Miss Judge appeared recently in a picture directed by Ruggles. They said the date for the wedding had not been set.

KIDNAPERS TORTURE
MARRIAGE ANGLE

Husband of Woman That He Wooded Named as Member of Abduction Trio.

New York, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—Three kidnapers abducted Mario Barrone, 25, early today, beat him almost into insensibility, applied lighted cigarettes to his naked body and tied him up with picture wire because of attention he had been paying to another man's wife.

Barrone was found in a shack behind a Brooklyn apartment house. His clothing was gone, his eyes were puffed and his body was bruised and burned. The wire was cutting his flesh at the wrists and the ankles.

He told police that James Merola, 31, and two other men had kidnaped and tortured him because he had been living with Merola's wife, Margaret, an attractive brunette.

He and Mrs. Merola were in the Barrone apartment in Manhattan last night, he said, when the three men came in and forced both of them to go to Brooklyn with them. Merola and one of his companions took Barrone to the shack, where they beat him in the face with their fists, burned him with the cigarettes and bound him, he said.

The victim of the attack said that he and Mrs. Merola had planned to sail for Italy together yesterday, but that they had encountered difficulties obtaining a passport.

Barrone and Mrs. Merola had been friendly for several months. On September 8 Merola complained to police that his wife had disappeared and that she had fled with the elopement.

At that time he told police he intended to take the law into his own hands if he found Barrone, but he was warned against it.

Detectives said Barrone is in this country illegally; that he had "jumped ship" 22 months ago.

A search for Merola, the other two men and Mrs. Merola has been started.

Dry Raiding Costs
Capone $500,000

$144,000 Worth of Equipment
Alone Seized by
'Untouchables.'

Chicago, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—An unceasing drive by a squad of college graduate prohibition agents headed by Special Agent Eliot Ness has cost Scarface Al Capone's liquor syndicate at least $500,000 during the last six months, it was claimed today.

Members of Ness' squad have earned for themselves the name of "the untouchables" because of their insistent refusal to accept bribes from alcohol distillers, rumrunners and beer truck drivers. Ness was one of the agents who uncovered evidence on which Capone has been indicted for 10,000 prohibition law violations.

Figures compiled today showed that Ness and his squad have seized $144,000 worth of brewery equipment, a $25,000 shipment of fine Illinois whisky, automobiles and trucks valued at $17,000, and 7,392 barrels of beer worth $55 a barrel retail—all belonging to Capone enterprises.

Temperatures have fallen in the Eastern and Southern States and has risen from the Rocky Mountain region eastward to the upper Mississippi Valley. The weather is unusually cool from the Ohio Valley and Virginia southward to the Gulf and south Atlantic coasts.

CHICAGO BANKS JOIN
$13,000,000 ASSETS

Express Trucks Guarded by Detectives Move Cash and Securities.

Chicago, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Merger of the Chicago Bank of Commerce and the Union Bank of Chicago was announced today by officials of the two institutions.

The two banks will operate under the name of the Chicago Bank of Commerce starting tomorrow morning. Total assets of the merged bank will be approximately $13,000,000 and deposits about $10,000,000.

Capital of the Union Bank of Chicago will be retained by its stockholders, but deposits and assets will be merged with those of the Bank of Commerce.

Approximately $12,000,000 in cash and securities was transferred today from the Union to the Bank of Commerce. Express trucks guarded by police and private detectives were used in the transfer, and few spectators knew what was happening.

Negotiations for the merger were completed at midnight after several days of conferences between officials.

Premier Improves

Election Date Is Likely to Be Set During the Present Week.

London, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald returned to Downing street tonight after a week-end of rest in the country. He said he was feeling much better.

The prime minister is expected some time this week to announce his decision regarding the holding of a general election.

J. H. Thomas, minister of dominions and colonies, said today an address to railway workers at Derby that a general election was inevitable and could not be delayed long. He said he would seek reelection from Derby although he has been repudiated by the leadership of Prime Minister MacDonald.

Speakers at Meeting
Here This Week.

Organized business will be represented at the fall board meeting of the Associated General Contractors of America by Silas H. Strawn, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, according to Edward J. Harding, managing director of the contractors' national organization. The meeting here will open Wednesday and will continue two days.

Mr. Strawn is to address the board at a dinner meeting Thursday, and it is expected that plans for still further cooperation between the contractors and the national Chamber of Commerce will be worked out.

Arthur S. Bent, of Los Angeles, past president of the Associated General Contractors and formerly director of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will explain the mechanism of cooperation between all elements of the construction industry and the California State Chamber of Commerce.

'Mellie' Dunham, Reviver
Of Old-Time Dances, Dies

Fiddler, Who Gained Fame by Playing for Henry Ford, Expires in Maine; a Great Favorite, He Also Was Known as Maker of Snowshoes.

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Alanson Mellie ("Mellie") Dunham, 78, who started a wave of popularity for the old-time dances five years ago, died here tonight in a hospital after an illness of two weeks. He underwent an operation after he had been ill at his home in Norway a week.

Mellie's rise to national prominence was nothing short of meteoric. For 73 years he had lived in the little town of Norway, where he was born, farming, making snowshoes and "fiddling" for the local dances. He was a great favorite with the townspeople, but the little gray-haired man with the drooping white mustache who "liked to fiddle for folks" was almost unknown anywhere else.

Then some one in 1925 promoted an "old-time fiddlers' contest" at the local armory and Mellie won over a score or more elderly fiddlers. After playing before Henry Ford, a vaudeville contract took him and his wife, Emma, whom he called "Gram," through the Middle West and the East. Everywhere they went they were favorites. The tour netted Mellie and Gram about $20,000, but their success did not go to their heads. Mellie wore in New York the same clothes he wore in Norway. Mackinac, rubber shoes, woolen shirt, open at the front, and Gram watched over him as carefully in New York as she had in Norway.

His tuneful fiddlin' stimulated a wave of revival of the old dance music. In the winter of 1930 misfortune befell them. Their century-old home was destroyed by fire. The Dunhams escaped with little more than their lives. The souvenirs of their great experience were destroyed. Mellie having succeeded in saving out his four beloved fiddles.

Mellie was the grandson of a patriot who served in the Revolutionary War and who was among the early settlers of Norway. He was born in the ancestral home, July 29, 1853, and it was there he and Gram, the former Emma Richardson, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

He claimed he discovered the diamond mine now widely used in the manufacture of snowshoes. His prominence as a maker of snowshoes came nearly a score of years before that as a fiddler, for he made the snowshoes Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary carried with him when he discovered the North Pole.

Film Notables Witness
Actors' Agent's Wedding

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—A large company of motion picture notables attended the noon wedding in Temple Israel here today of Benjamin Hirschfeld, screen actors' agent, and Rita Le Roy, film actress. The matron of honor was June Clyde, actress wife of Thornton Freeland, director.

The bridal couple left soon after the ceremony for a motor tour of northern California.

WILL SPEAK

Seventh District Will Vote
Tomorrow to Choose Major's Successor.

Springfield, Mo., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—One of the several vacancies in the National House of Representatives, caused by deaths since the last general elections, will be filled Tuesday when the Seventh Missouri District elects a successor to the late Sam C. Major (Democrat), of Payette.

The election has attracted State and national interest, as a possible barometer of what the trend will be in 1932. Filling of this and the other vacancies will have an important bearing on whether the Republicans will retain the House organization or lose control to the Democrats.

The Seventh Missouri District normally is Democratic by 1,500 to 3,500. Major carried the district in five of the last seven elections, losing to Roscoe C. Patterson, now United States senator in 1920, and to John W. Palmer, again the Republican nominee, in 1928.

This time the situation has been somewhat complicated by the entrance into the race of L. L. Collins, independent anti-prohibition candidate, formerly a Democratic leader here. Palmer and Robert D. Johnson, the Democratic nominee, have the endorsement of the Antisoon League.

Numerous prominent speakers have been brought into the district by both parties, but despite this reports tonight indicate the election had attracted attention elsewhere than within the district. Former Senator James A. Reed spoke at Lexington last night in Johnson's behalf, and Senator Joe T. Robinson spoke for him at Springfield. Senator Patterson and State officials have made many speeches for Palmer.

Fairbanks to Visit

Actor and Wife Plan Air
Tour During Winter to Make Travelogue.

Hollywood, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, Mary Pickford, screen stars, are planning an airplane trip to South America, it was learned today. Contingent upon the recovery of Jack Pickford, brother of the actress who is ill, they will leave in December or January.

Fairbanks plans to film "Through South America With Douglas Fairbanks" to be sold as a travelogue. Two planes will be used and the party will include cameramen and technicians.

They will fly down the west coast of Central America and South America, then will cross the Andes to the East coast. Numerous stops will be made.

NO OUTSIDE MEDIATION.

The official statement of the Japanese government concerning the situation in Manchuria and the present attitude of Japanese troops there, is, to all appearances, a clear and frank exposition of the action taken by Japan. It seems to justify Undersecretary of State Castle's characterization as a sincere statement, indicating Japan's desire to conciliate its dispute with China.

The denial of China's demand for an immediate inquiry by an impartial commission and acquiescence in Japan's refusal to submit to outside negotiation enables the League of Nations to dodge a test of its authority in connection with a dispute between two members. Whether adopted by force of necessity and impotence in the face of the attitude of the stronger contending party, or whether the council is sincerely convinced that hostilities had not reached a point requiring league mediation, great relief must have been registered at Geneva.

It probably will be found easier to placate China and induce her to negotiate directly with Japan than for Japan to accept outside mediation. Meanwhile Japan, apparently, is withdrawing her troops largely within her prescribed railway zone of influence; reports of extended operations and occupation of distant points appear to have been exaggerated. Japan stands upon her declaration that her actions have had no designs on territory and have only been such as are required by the "proper duty of a government to protect the rights and interests legitimately enjoyed by the nation or individuals."

The question as to which side is responsible for the trouble in Manchuria is a difficult one to answer by outsiders, and probably never will be agreed upon by China and Japan. The Japanese statement asserts that offenses against Japanese residents of Manchuria have been going on for years and that the immediate cause for extension of Japanese military authority was the unjustifiable execution of a Japanese officer and two soldiers and that a section of the Japanese controlled South Manchurian Railway was torn up by Chinese.

To the Japanese charges China replies that the Japanese caused damage and disorders in order to set up an excuse for military occupation. The situation is very complicated, as is inevitable when international and racial antagonisms have been growing more intense over a period of years, fanned by the rancors of many incidents petty in themselves, but serious in their aggregate influence upon national feelings.

If Japan's claims that she has withdrawn her troops within her railroad zone; that the total of her army force in Manchuria is within treaty limits, and that she harbors no territorial designs in Manchuria are sustained by succeeding events, it seems clear that China should conclude a new understanding with Japan, as that nation now suggests.

A WOMAN PRISON DIRECTOR.

Only a person who has lived in Spain can fully appreciate the triumph of a woman who has been successful in the public life of that country. For a woman to have reached a position of national importance is noteworthy anywhere, but this distinction in Spain is almost unprecedented. Yet Victoria Kent has been made the director of Spanish prisons and thereby holds one of the most important posts in the world held by a woman.

A lawyer, Senorita Kent was famous before the revolution as the defender of republican agitators and leaders who were tried. After the formation of the republic she urged the improvement of prisons, in which, she claimed, inmates were caged like wild animals. The changes she advocated—better meals, more guards, work and exercise for the prisoners—were dismissed as impossibilities by authorities in control. The meager budget allowed this department could not be increased at a time when all government expenditures were subject to an inadequate national income. It could be done on the regular prison budget, Victoria Kent insisted, if figures were gathered regarding the exact state of all prisons. Whereupon these figures were amassed for the first time since 1834.

On being appointed director Senorita Kent closed all but 155 of the 437 prisons. Most of the institutions were small and often housed no more than one or two prisoners a month. By keeping only those actually needed she reduced the expense about one-third, which made possible her plans for humanization. Though the prisons will be greatly improved, the director says, there will be no danger of the jobless wanting to get in.

The record of this woman pioneer has thus far been highly creditable. Not endowed with any remarkable or striking attributes, her worth seems rather to lie in her normalcy and common sense. Only a fair speaker, of average beauty, she is generally liked and admired for her sincerity. She is a great worker. Rising early, she is at her duties until afternoon, when she attends the national assembly, of which she is a member, until 9 p. m. In the evening she often returns to her office, working until midnight. Spain has been fortunate in the selection of so capable and conscientious an executive.

DON'T GIVE TO BEGGARS.

The Community Chest has issued a timely warning against giving money to beggars on the streets. Hundreds of professional mendicants are taking advantage of the depression to prey upon the public. Large sums of money that should go to the needy unemployed are being passed out in small amounts to shiftless individuals who find begging easier than work. Citizens who give to "panhandlers" encourage idleness and thereby do a disservice to their community.

No one needs to go hungry in Washington. The Community Chest is emphatic in its declaration that all worthy cases of need will be cared for. When citizens are accosted on the streets they should inform the petitioner that aid can be obtained at the Council of Social Agencies at 1418 I street. There is no way of knowing whether the beggar on the street is really an unfortunate victim of circumstances, as he always claims to be, or whether he is a mere leech making a good living at the expense of gullible individuals. The Council of Social Agencies is equipped to investigate every case and to furnish aid wherever it is actually needed.

Contributors to the Community Chest are entitled to tickets that may be given to individuals who claim to be in distress. Hundreds of these tickets have been distributed to street beggars, but less than a dozen have been presented by the recipients to social agencies. Unquestionably the Washington public is being victimized by professional mendicants who play upon heartstrings that have been made tender by adverse economic conditions.

Begging will continue until the people learn that it is an unsocial act to pass out money to mendicants of whom they know nothing. The law makes begging a crime, but it is very difficult to enforce this law without the whole-hearted support of the people. In this hour of widespread need the public should consider this matter seriously and allow no means that are available for the alleviation of distress to go to idle vagrants. Those who are inclined to make a donation for relief of the distressed should give it to some social agency. Under no circumstances should money be distributed indiscriminately to street beggars.

EFFECTIVE HEALTH LAWS.

The recent epidemic of infantile paralysis has made many persons wonder whether its spread might not have been checked more successfully had American health laws been more stringent. Whether this particular disease could have been coped with more adequately is subject to discussion, but there is no doubt that the United States has much to learn about the administration of public health from such countries as New Zealand, Austria and the nations of Scandinavia. The Swedish system, which has accomplished such advances in that country, is one of the most interesting and least known abroad.

It is the duty of the department of health of Sweden to keep the people well, like the old Chinese idea. Persons who are unable to pay receive free treatment, while those who can pay are required to pay reasonable amounts. A health council governs every community in Sweden as well as in Norway. It consists of the district physician, who is the chairman, and the entire parish council, with two additional members, one of whom must be a woman. The council has authority to enforce its regulations, if necessary with police assistance. Persons resisting treatment of contagious disease, or in any way jeopardizing the public health, can be taken to the hospital by force.

Despite the small fees there are plenty of doctors in Sweden, and they are prosperous. A high standard of medical training is maintained, not only for physicians but for nurses. District nurses are trained at government expense and are given a thorough course of instruction. Midwives, too, receive a more thorough training in their branch of learning than an American graduate general physician receives. It is this feature, according to some authorities, that is largely accountable for the United States having the highest maternal mortality rate of any nation in the civilized world. American mothers average eight deaths per thousand, Chile following next with less than 7.5, and Sweden having but 2.5, and Norway's record being even better.

Through control, social disease in Sweden has been astonishingly reduced. Free compulsory treatment has done much in this direction. Every doctor is obliged to report any case he encounters and an effort is made to trace the source of infection. A penalty of 50 crowns and a maximum of two years' hard labor are given for transmitting such a disease. So effective is this regulation that when the enforcement was relaxed a marked increase was noted in the number of cases. The exceptional results achieved in the various fields of the Scandinavian health departments are such that they merit serious investigation and consideration by American authorities.

ROADS AND ACCIDENTS.

The most novel theory yet advanced to explain the waste of life and property through automobile accidents is that modern roads are too good. A correspondent of the Manchester Guardian recently charged modern highway engineers with luring motorists to their destruction. London built one of the finest arteries of traffic that has ever been constructed in the hope of reducing traffic hazards. According to this correspondent it has become a "traffic nightmare" and is considered one of the most dangerous roads in England.

The article in question was designed to acquaint English motorists with various old detours and byroads on which they could escape from the fast traffic of the boulevards. When roads are perfectly smooth and wide enough for passing the temptation to speed seems irresistible to Englishmen. They disregard all rules of safety and add casually to casualty. Hence, roads must not be constructed so well. Until engineers learn to put hazards in their highways so as to dispel the human inclination to speed, those who want to be safe will have to find twisting dirt roads with humped-up bridges.

This curious philosophy is being reechoed in some quarters of the United States. It takes on the aspects of a campaign against good roads, and therefore descends to mere nonsense. Expansive boulevards which carry enormous streams of fast traffic seem to be more dangerous than the ancient byways because they are more heavily traveled. But it is well known that rough and narrow roads are a source of constant danger to the motoring public. When a road is poor the motorist often meets with accident in spite of prudent driving.

Modern improved highways do encourage speeding. That can not be denied. But why should roads be blamed for the deficient judgment of motorists? Highways ought to be planned so as to facilitate traffic in every way and to reduce hazards to a minimum. The vast majority of motorists are safer on good roads. It is absurd to argue that highways should be made unsafe for all the public because a few individuals indulge in too much speed.

Excessive speed can be curbed by highway patrolling. Maybe London needs a few determined Irish traffic cops. Certainly the States ought to supervise traffic on their highways more rigidly in this country. But there is still a great need for better highways.

The legion's head and heart are all right. If its throat is dry—well, charge it to the drought.

EASTERN NATIONAL PARKS

By REPRESENTATIVE MAURICE H. THATCHER, of Kentucky, in the American Civic Annual.

Under enabling acts of Congress, three great national parks in our country east of the Mississippi River are in process of creation. The required areas for these national parks are being purchased by State and private funds. In the future all the required lands and properties will be conveyed to the Federal Government for national park purposes. Already deeds for a part of the Great Smoky Mountains area have been officially delivered to the Secretary of the Interior.

By the legislation in May, 1926, there was authorized the creation of the Mammoth Cave National Park in Kentucky, the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee, and the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia.

The ultimate area of the Mammoth Cave National Park, as provided in the act of creation, is about 70,000 acres, including the world-famous Mammoth Cave and the other great systems of caverns in that region. Much larger areas will be required for the establishment of the other two of these national parks, as they are mountainous in character, and their essential features, of course, are external. This is not to say that the Mammoth Cave National Park will not have meritorious external features. It possesses such features, and in abundance but the vast underground world of the Mammoth Cave region offers outstanding elements of appeal, unique, distinctive, and scientific. Nevertheless, the area to be included in this national park will comprehend very lovely scenery including the navigable Green and Nolich rivers, provided with a regular steamboat service. The virgin forests, the high hills, and tremendous limestone cliffs along these streams combine to make the terrain strikingly picturesque and most delightful for recreational purposes.

The scenic beauty of the mountains and valleys of the Shenandoah National Park region, lying within 80 miles of the National Capital, and surrounded by spots of historic fame, give to this national park area an appeal of outstanding interest.

The Great Smoky Mountains, running along the boundary of North Carolina and Tennessee are, in a number of respects, different from any other mountains of our country. They are lofty and rugged, and because of the unusually heavy rainfall they support forest growths of rare extensiveness and beauty.

When these areas are accepted by the National Park Service for administration through hotels and camps are constructed and maintained, and when roads and trails are provided, the American people will undoubtedly come in great numbers to visit their possessions.

In traveling over the proposed Eastern National Park-to-Park highway one may start at any point along the line. About 1,950 miles of roadway are involved in this route, nearly all of it under Federal aid and hard surfaced. The unconstructed links are, for the most part, now under construction. In certain sections of this highway the roads must be brought up to a better standard for travel. The route throughout must be properly marked, not only indicating mileages, but also pointing out the historic and scenic features along the way. When the whole route is thus improved and marked, it will provide a continuous, adequate, and delightful motorway for the innumerable travelers that will pass over it in the years to come, en route to these national parks and monuments, and the important cities, communities, and points of historic and scenic interest which add distinction to the route. The educational and inspirational value of the highway is beyond estimation.

This highway will constitute one of the most important scenic and historic motorways of the entire country and will enable the people of America, and those from abroad, to see the eastern national park areas and historic national monuments, together with the cities and points of commanding interest on the route under the most favorable conditions.

POST HASTE.

Briand and Laval are in Berlin. It may be the world's most important week-end visit.

Efforts are still being made to show that the legion convention vote favoring a prohibition referendum was not a wet vote, but simply an impartial desire for an expression of national sentiment. It is difficult to determine which such contenders consider the bigger boob, the legionnaires or the public.

A general survey by the building trades indicates that $4,000,000,000 will be spent in that industry the year beginning October 1. And why? Because that amount will go as far as 25 per cent more, or an additional billion, two years ago.

Senator Sheppard and some others now propose to make the buyer and drinker equally as guilty as the bootlegger. Since prison facilities are pretty well taxed with convicted sellers, a preliminary estimate is in order to determine the ratio of purchasers and imbibers to dispensers, so that adequate accommodations may be provided. The proportion must be at least 100 to 1, so that will help the building boom.

Rockne's system is still in force at Notre Dame, even to the announcement of a team that is hopeless in September.

PAUL HUDSON.

Opposition to Roosevelt.

There is real opposition to Gov. Roosevelt, and it is not universal in high political strategy. It is as real as is the enthusiasm for the New York governor in other quarters. The fight is not over by any means, despite the rosy optimism of the governor's friends, who are counting their chickens before they are hatched. It is going to be a pretty race to watch as it develops between now and next June.

Is Man a Free Thinker If He Isn't Free to Be Anything Else?

By ROBERT QUILEN

IN Africa there is a savage tribe whose standard of physical perfection requires a flat forehead and a long skull. The heads of its new-born infants are bound between boards and thus held as in a vice until their skulls assume the strange malformation that vanity requires.

The adult savage, aware of no standards except those of his tribe, is proud of his deformity and feels superior because of it. But if the standard should change, or mischance should place him in another environment, he would be the most unfortunate of men. The egg is hatched. The shape of his thick skull is permanent. As he had no voice in determining the shape it should assume, neither has he any power to effect a change.

Among more civilized peoples, whose standards have other peculiarities, the effort of parents is limited to the inside of the child's skull. But the result is equally permanent, and the victim is equally powerless to change it. More, and worse, he is powerless to desire a change.

Idea do something to the brain cells. Because ideas seem spiritual things, without weight or substance, we think of them as powerless things unable to do physical damage.

But the brain is physical and can function only in a physical way. The process of thought must require physical activity of its cells. And ideas affect those cells as definitely and as permanently as boards affect the skull of the African savage.

You are a Catholic, a Baptist, a Democrat, a conservative, a coward or a snob because ideas not of your choosing were used to shape your mind when you were young.

As you had no choice in the matter then, neither have you any choice now. You can neither change nor desire to change. Your present way seems right, not because you determined upon it with the aid of reason and logic, but because the impression on your brain cells makes you incapable of thinking any other way right.

Do you scorn those who have different standards? Would you despise another slave because his chains were unlike yours?

Before you boast of your standards, let's see you change a few of them to prove they are your own handicraft and not something forced upon you.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics"

Deficit Forbids Bonus.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In his eagerness to forestall action by the American Legion for veterans' legislation that would require further financial outlay, Mr. Hoover last Saturday suddenly decided to go to Detroit.

His speech before the Legion convention, written hastily at Rapidan and revised on the train, consisted of outlining the financial embarrassment of the Treasury and pointing out the dangers of increasing Federal expenditures at this time.

There can hardly be any dispute as to the soundness of the President's argument. The Government has been lavish in its provision for disabled veterans and the last Congress made it possible for former soldiers to borrow 50 per cent of the face value of their adjusted compensation certificates. In view of what already has been done and of the Treasury deficit, further demands could hardly be justified.

Hoover at Detroit.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Having vetoed the bill which permitted the veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the value of their bonus insurance policies, President Hoover was consistent when he went before the American Legion convention in Detroit and asked that veterans postpone making requests for further loans and governmental aid. His speech at the convention, therefore, contained no element of surprise.

In presenting his views to the Legion, Mr. Hoover proceeded in diplomatic fashion. He did not single out further expenditures for veterans' aid for his opposition, but linked it with other expenditures which he felt the Government was not in a position financially to make at this time.

He frankly set the Government's fiscal situation before the veterans, calling attention to the huge deficit the Treasury faces, the falling off in revenue due to bad business conditions in the country, and the urgent need for the Government to economize as a means of avoiding increasing the tax load on the people.

Nor did he fail to take note of America's opportunity to lead the world out of the era of depression. But, in order to take advantage of that opportunity, the Government, he said, must not burden business and industry too greatly.

The Movement for Repeal.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The movement for repeal or modification of the prohibition laws has received fresh impetus from the legion's action on this controversial question, calling on Congress to submit the issue to the States. It has long been apparent that in no other way can a clear-cut decision of the issue be obtained. The only binding referendum, of course, would be one resulting from the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment, either to the State Legislatures or to State conventions called for the purpose. The latter method, authorized by the Constitution, has never been utilized, but it contains certain advantages over ratification or rejection by State Legislatures.

Pennsylvania Democrats endorse Roosevelt for President. That's fine, but the electoral votes will have to come from other States.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Legion and Federation of Labor Are Advised to Fight for Law Enforcement Instead of Prohibition Repeal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It certainly is refreshing to those who believe in the prohibition amendment, the Volstead act and law enforcement to pick up a Washington newspaper and be greeted by such an article as your editorial entitled "Beer—Nothing Doing."

The Post is to be congratulated for its outspoken stand on many questions, but on this particular question concerning which there has been so much newspaper noise, special praise is due and accorded.

It is to be regretted that two such organizations as the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor should have strayed so far from the path of righteous progress as indicated by their continual "yapping" for light wines and beer.

How much better Americanism it would be to emphasize a continual demand for law enforcement and obedience to law on the part of all.

The two organizations named can not afford to alienate the people who put the dry amendment into the Constitution.

HART B. FIDMAN.

Japan Wants to Extend Control Over Manchuria, Says Correspondent, to Relieve Its Congested Population.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The warlike operation of the Japanese troops extending throughout the three eastern provinces and far beyond the South Manchuria Railway zone is clearly a case of deliberate aggression with the ultimate object of permanent occupation. Japan, with a population far larger than her soil and natural resources could support, has constantly cast covetous glances at the rich territory of Manchuria. In seeking for a pretext to occupy the Chinese territory, she spared no energy to provoke friction and trouble.

Trusting that the world opinion will uphold justice and effect a peaceful settlement of the dispute, China is exercising considerable forbearance. Both Japan, the United States and China are signatories to the nine-power treaty, guaranteeing the integrity of China, and the Kellogg pact which purports to serve as an instrument to outlaw war. That the military occupation of Manchuria by the Japanese troops could be construed as not a violation of the Kellogg pact is inconceivable.

Philippine Commissioners Here Indorse Plea of Legislature for Independence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The new independence memorial adopted by the Philippine legislature at a joint session is a vigorous reiteration of the consistent and constant demand of the Filipino people for the immediate and complete political emancipation of the Philippine Islands. Respectfully but firmly our constitutional representatives make a vehement appeal to the Government and people of the United States for the redemption of America's solemn promise.

We, the representatives of 13,000,000 souls, add ours to the appeal voiced by our legislature and urge definite action on Philippine independence without delay, convinced that this is the honorable course and the righteous solution of American-Philippine relations.

Sane Reasoning Necessary to Settle Current Problems.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of September 28 on "Beer—Nothing Doing" is splendid. It stands out like a beacon along a rocky coast of confusion. Through its timely appeal to common sense you have rendered a valuable public service. If the American press would follow your example it would not take long to bring that multitude of belugged minds back to sane reasoning.

I wish also to express my appreciation of your editorial page for its courageous and clear-cut stand on the questions of the day.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

STRANGE BEGGAR.

He was, I'm sure, the strangest man that I have ever met. He didn't have a nickel in his ragged clothes, and yet.

When I asked him how it happened that he chanced so poor to be, He said: "I've made a mess of things, as you can plainly see."

"I stared as a youngster, on a sad and sorry day. I hated being sent to school and so I ran away."

I didn't care to study, and since nothing much I knew. I had to take the sort of job an ignorant boy could do.

"I thought if I just drifted, to a port I'd surely come. But nothing ever happened, so I took to drinking rum, And now I'm down to begging, lost to fortune and to fame, But I'm honest with you, mister, I have just myself to blame."

He was, I'm sure, the strangest man that I have ever met. His life was one of poverty and bitterness, and yet.

He merely shrugged his shoulders and had only this to say: "Life gave me several chances, but I tossed them all away."

SOVIET GRAIN CROPS TO EQUAL 1930 MARK

Rain Damage Overcome by Larger Acreage Planted;
Figures Unknown.

Moscow, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Grain production in the Soviet Union for 1931 is expected in authoritative quarters to approximately equal that of 1930, which was the largest on record, notwithstanding acknowledged damage to the spring crop in several areas from excessive rainfall.

Although the government thus far has made no estimate of the size of this year's crop, it was considered in informed quarters that the rain damage had offset to a great extent the effect of an increased acreage which was sown and the greatly expanded use of tractors and other mechanized farm implements.

General figures on the progress of the harvest have not been made public, except in terms of acreage reaped, which does not give an indication of the extent of the damage or of the condition of the crops as a whole.

The total acreage reaped up to September 10, was 84,388,000 hectares (206,338,440 acres) or 88.8 per cent of the spring grain area and 43.7 per cent of the winter grain area. In 1930 the total grain harvest amounted to 87,364,480 metric tons, of which 28,360,000 were of wheat, from a total sown area of 252,042,000 acres, of which 8,348,098 acres were in wheat.

Official figures are unavailable as to the total area sown in all grain this year, but it was estimated roughly at between 256,984,000 acres and 264,397,000 acres, of which government figures show 91,921,200 acres in wheat.

Exports of all grain in 1929-1930 amounted to 5,052,000 metric tons, of which 2,530,800 were of wheat. This period, however, actually consisted of fifteen months, owing to a change from October to January for the beginning of the fiscal year.

Iowa Cattle Test

War Nearing End

Fourth of Troops Ordered Home After Five Days of Controversy.

Tipton, Iowa, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—The Battle of Cedar County, Iowa's own private war, seemed nearing its end today.

For five days it has raged, climaxing a long period of somewhat guerrilla resistance by farmers to State veterinarians' efforts to test cattle for tuberculosis under an act passed by the 1929 Legislature.

Troops, marching over rain-soaked terrain, sleeping in pup tents at their camp at the county fair grounds, armed with complete military equipment, machine guns and the full power of the State, have given a really military flavor to this battle of the Commonwealth to enforce its laws. Today rebellion seemed to have died. The first tests were read. A fourth of the troops were ordered home, happy to leave after a week of mud, army mess and uncomfortable sleeping in the chill fall atmosphere.

Easy Divorce Novelty Wears Off in Russia

Moscow, Sept. 27 (U.P.).—The novelty of easy divorce in Soviet Russia has worn off and the number of persons to take advantage of the "new domestic freedom" has decreased sharply in the last six months.

Although the divorce rate is still one of the highest in the world, figures obtained today from the state planning commission showed 8,906 divorces and 16,795 marriages, or about 530 divorces to every 1,000 marriages, as compared to 631 in 1930.

The cities had the greatest divorce rate, but all were lower than in 1928, when there were 800 divorces to every 1,000 marriages.

Texas Legislature Closing Date Near

"Farmer Session" to End
Tomorrow; Two Chief
Bills Left.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 27 (U.P.).—With but two days of the "farmers' session" remaining, Texas lawmakers tomorrow face two major bills still on the legislative slate. Both House and Senate have voted nine die adjournment for 6 p. m. Tuesday.

The Senate has yet to vote on a bill diverting 1 cent of the State's 4-cent gasoline tax to retirement of county and district bonds on highways now a part of the State system. The bill goes to the Senate with a favorable report from the highways and motor traffic committee.

A bill outlawing slot machines, raffles and punch boards, alleged to constitute a "million-dollar racket" in Texas, must be considered by both Houses. The bill declares slot machines a common nuisance, authorizes injunctions against their use, destruction of the machines and penitentiary sentences for operators.

Publishers in Atlanta Maintain Wage Scale

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Union printers on the three Atlanta newspapers today accepted a proposal of publishers that present wage scales be maintained, and voted to renew a contract on that basis for three years. The contracts are to be signed tomorrow.

W. S. Griffin, of the Constitution composing room, and a member of the Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48, praised the publishers for their action. "It shows," he said, "that the publishers are practicing what they preach—don't cut wages."

Veterans' Fete Armistice Day To Be Brilliant

Mrs. Dougherty Is Again Sponsor for Jubilee at Auditorium.

A brilliant event of the early social season will be the Armistice Day jubilee at the Washington Auditorium the evening of November 11, given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, who headed the box committee for the Armistice Ball, at which the Vice President was present last year, is again sponsoring the armistice celebration of the veterans.

Proceeds will provide funds for aid of disabled and destitute veterans. The jubilee will take the place of the ball given annually by the organization. The event last year was one of the most successful in the history of the organization and it was for this reason that plans were made to expand the celebration of November 11, so that those who are not dancers may join in celebrating the occasion by getting a glimpse of how Armistice Day of 1918 was celebrated in Paris. The Auditorium will be converted into "A Bit of Paris."

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford has arrived from Arizona to direct the event and is assisted by a large committee of veterans. Gen. Glassford had a brilliant war record and was one of the youngest brigadier generals of the Army, having received that commission at the age of 35 years during the war.

Mrs. Belmont Gives Party For 70 French Children.

Mr. O. H. P. Belmont, of Paris, formerly of New York and Washington, gave a party for 70 children a few days ago at the little village of Augerville-la-Riviere, near Fontainebleau. The children represented a group Mrs. Belmont has "taken under her wing" this summer. The party marked the second year of the establishment by Mrs. Belmont of a kindergarten for children during two months' summer vacation. Under direction of a social center assistant, they are taught French and American songs and engage in all sorts of games.

Mrs. Belmont arranged for the party last week an elaborate program of games, and during the afternoon the children had sweets and ice cream in the village motion picture hall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jones, who make their home at the Burlington Hotel, are spending a week at Haddon Hall, in Atlantic City.

Couple Known Here Married At New York

Miss Isobel Carrington Becomes Bride of Dr. Woodward.

Miss Isobel Robertson Carrington, daughter of Col. Edward C. Carrington and the late Mrs. Carrington, was married Saturday to Dr. John Franklin Woodward, Jr., son of Dr. Woodward of Norfolk, Va. They are both well known in Washington.

The ceremony was performed in the home of the bride's father at 471 Park avenue, New York, by the Rev. Arthur Kinsolving, chaplain of the United States Military Academy at West Point. The bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph Cooper Graham, of Chicago, was matron of honor and other attendants were another sister, Mrs. Charles H. Baird and Mrs. Alfred Van Patten, Norfolk; Miss Julie Baldwin, Baltimore; and Miss Louise Wallace and Miss Rosemary Street, of New York. The bride wore a gown of white velvet with a veil of tulle and carried an armful of calla lilies. After a reception, the bride and bridegroom left for a wedding trip and members of the wedding party and relatives were entertained at dinner at the Ritz Tower by the bride's father.

The Lee House Spokesman Says—

HE likes system as it relates to orderliness and an arranged control of the affairs of the hotel, but he dislikes standardization.

YOU know the sound and looks of the word "standardization" are very much like "sterilization." It is not an unnatural association, for if you standardize too much you sterilize all originality and enthusiasm.

THE Lee House spokesman says you will not find a dead standardization guiding our hotel. We do have a basis of procedure, of course, and our organization is expected to serve you in the manner laid down for their guidance, but we'll waive any rule and we permit a latitude to our staff to do so if, in any proper way, you will be better served.

WE have no standardization.

BUT we have standards, and they are high—all directed to an interest in the welfare and comfort of our guests.

Seven Capital Girls Entered At Wellesley

Freshmen Join List of 18 Who Are Members of Upper Classes.

Seven girls from Washington have registered as freshmen at Wellesley College. They are: Miss Marion E. Shouse, daughter of Mr. J. J. Richardson; Miss Martha Louise Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Little; Miss Villette Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Sullivan, and Miss Mary Louise Colbert, daughter of Commander and Mrs. L. O. Colbert.

Washington is also well represented in advanced classes and in the alumnae association, there being eighteen other Capital girls on the college roll and 100 alumnae living in or near the city.

Wednesday afternoon a get-together tea was given for the newcomers and Thursday night a vaudeville was offered under auspices of various college organizations. Saturday morning the whole college met for the first time at chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Gordon announce the marriage of their daughter, Julia Anna to Mr. Edgar Leonard De Moreland, of Atlanta, Ga., formerly of Washington.

The marriage took place at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, New York, August 31, in the presence of only a few close friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George C. Moor.

After October 1, Mr. and Mrs. De Moreland will be at home to their friends at 153 Tenth street northeast.

The Norwegian Minister and Mme. Backe, who recently arrived in New York after spending the summer in Norway, have returned to the legation here.

The Danish Minister and Mme. Wadstedt, who have been at their home in Denmark since July, are expected to return to Washington about October 12.

Mrs. Filene Dodd gave a tea and garden party yesterday afternoon in her country home, Wolftrap Farm, in Virginia, to members of the Women's National Press Club. She was assisted in receiving guests by the president of the club, Miss Martha Strayer.

Mrs. Hull, wife of Representative William E. Hull of Illinois, will not return to Washington until the first of December, when she will join Mr. Hull for the session.

FOR WIVES ONLY

WHAT things do you hold dearest? If you're like most of us they run somewhat in this order: Family, Health, Happiness, Appearance, Youth.

But have you ever stopped to think how easily they are lost?

Remember the old proverb. For want of a nail the shoe was lost. For want of a shoe the horse was lost. For want of a horse the rider was lost. Frequently, battles, even destinies of nations, depend on little things.

We see the big results of small neglects all around us. Even in our own homes. A child denied companionship. A wife too tired to be pleasant... Too thoughtless of her own vitality—her youthful charm. A husband vexed by late suppers, by makeshift breakfasts... ashamed of home-washed shirts.

Hundreds of other little domestic dangers start with washday in the home. But they don't stop there. They go on and on, gathering momentum, making life unpleasant. But we think we're saving money.

And we think it's appreciated. That's the cream of the jest! More likely our children—and our husbands too—are secretly ashamed of their "washwomen wives and mothers." Plain talk, yes, but it's a plain case.

The solution is not only easy—but economical. Pick a good laundry. Pick one that gives fast, economical service. One that saves you money by saving your clothes. We do these things for thousands of Washington women every day, here at Manhattan. And they consider their money well spent. They wouldn't go back to home washing because they know that many things besides original cost are important.

Many of them have seen how Manhattan's soft net bags keep out the wear that wears out clothes. How each piece is washed in suds of pure palm oil soap. Rinsed with soft, filtered water. Returned in three short days.

Manhattan services are worked out to fit every need—every purse. Hundreds of families send the flat work if nothing more. Some women use a service like Homestic and touch up the wearing apparel at home. Others use our complete ready-to-wear services. But the service is easily fitted to your needs. The main thing is to get washday out of the home!

After all, this is an age of specialization. We buy bread from bakers, milk from milkmen... why not laundering from laundries?

It's the only way to escape four solid years of washday work and worry. (Figure it up, a day a week, between the ages 20 to 45).

If you agree that it's worth a trial, phone Decatur 1120. Just leave your address and we'll send a Manhattan representative to explain our money-saving services to you. But don't put it off any longer. Health and Happiness are too precious. Remember, Decatur 1120... or better still, tear this out as a reminder.

FAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A CITY famous for its musical culture, Baltimore expects to put on some fine radio programs this winter.

First, and what we consider one of our biggest drawing cards, is the return to the air of Mabel Garrison, the former Metropolitan Opera star, and a native of Baltimore, in a series of exclusive broadcasts from WBAL, Frederick R. Huber, director of WBAL, replied in response to a request from The Post regarding his season's plans. "Miss Garrison begins her second season with this station on September 29 and she will appear thereafter every Tuesday evening from 8:30 to 9 o'clock as soloist with the ensemble, of which Felice Julia is conductor.

Then WBAL plans to continue its Sunday morning artist-recital, which have become a popular Sunday feature, while announcement is also made that a series of concerts, sponsored by the Peabody Conservatory of Music, will be broadcast the first Thursday evening of each month. These concerts will present outstanding musical talent in this section and promise to be among the star local radio features of the coming season. This series was arranged through the cooperation of Otto Ortmann, director of the Peabody Conservatory.

From the chain WBAL will broadcast again this season the Damrosch musical appreciation program, which will begin on October 9.

An unusual event to start sometime in October, supplied to us by Columbia, will be the full Philadelphia Symphony which will go on the air one Saturday night each month. J. T. Lyons, vice president of Station WCAO, in Baltimore, replied.

Beginning Sunday, October 4, Father Coughlin, of Detroit, will be on the air from 4 to 5 p. m. for 27 weeks. "Uncle Ed and His Dream Children" have already reopened for the winter season at 5 p. m. Sunday evenings.

"Sometime in October the Rev. Dr. Oscar Fisher Blackwelder will also put on a weekly feature entitled "The Lighted Window." This will be an inspirational talk.

"Our Kiddie Carnival recently began their weekly broadcasts at 11 a. m. for the third year."

Arthur Godfrey, WRC announcer, is expected to recover from the serious injuries he sustained in an automobile accident Saturday afternoon. His pelvic bones and both knees are broken and one lung was crushed.

We prefer to take the word of Floyd Gibbons, John S. Young and Martha Atwood, radio people, who were in Detroit during the convention, that the Legionnaires were not "staggering drunk" as was charged by Clarence Tice Wilson.

DINNER tonight will be regaled by a special program commemorating S. Kann Sons Co.'s thirty-eighth anniversary. It will be broadcast over Station WMAL, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

There will be a 12-piece orchestra, led by Meyer Goldman.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, President James E. Angell of Yale University and Dr. Ernest L. Bogart, president of the American Economic Association, will inaugurate a weekly program of radio addresses and press conferences on economics and psychology, October 17, over an NBC hook-up. These lectures will be the first programs on academic subjects to be sponsored by the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education. The council was organized over a year ago to further the art of radio broadcasting in American education. There will be 30 lectures in each series.

REPRESENTATIVES of the two major networks have been sleuthing around the radio commission in an effort to have the regulation which requires the stations announce their call letters every 15 minutes modified. It is claimed that because of these announcements dramatic programs are unduly disrupted. There are two sides of the question. If broadcasters are allowed this privilege, they will be able to announce their call letters whenever they feel like it, as was the case before this regulation went into effect. Then there is liable to be a heavy protest from those who listen to distant stations and don't want to sit around for half an hour or so waiting to find out what transmitter they are tuned in on.

With tomorrow night's "Georgetown Salvation Army Library" program, Radio Joe and his budget boys will resume their former time, 7:30 to 8 p. m.—over WMAL for the winter months.

A new radio school of cookery, conducted by Mrs. A. M. Oudis, will be inaugurated over WMAL tomorrow morning. The John J. Pershing Hall dedication will be broadcast from Paris Thursday morning. "Washington Conference" will be discussed by Harold K. Phillips, newspaperman, Wednesday afternoon, 5 o'clock. Emory Deutsch, who broadcasts authentic music of the Hungarian gypsy, has kept his orchestra ensemble intact without a single change for six years. The assorted tunes and wisecracks of "Old Maestro" Ben Bernie will be moved to 9 o'clock tomorrow night over WMAL.

A second series of Sherlock Holmes radio revivals will be inaugurated over the WJZ network. This series will open with "The Red-Headed League" and will be distinct from the Sherlock Holmes offerings now being heard over WRC.

In an effort to build up day-time radio service, many night-time features will be mingled with the old during the coming season. The South Sea Islanders, the Black and Gold Orchestra, Ballad Singers, El Tango Romantico, the Morning Clee Club, a daily variety show, a musical comedy revue and many others are to be found in the NBC week day schedules.

WARNING the public against expecting too much of television, Walter E. Holland, a radio engineer, said:

"I think television offers wonderful possibilities for the future, but that its development will be evolutionary and gradual rather than revolutionary. The publicity and ballyhoo that is going about it, I believe, seriously retard public acceptance of television, if by it the public is led to expect at the outset results that can come only through years of intensive development."

"There will be great initial curiosity and interest in this new wonder of science," but interest will soon wane unless synchronized sound and television broadcast programs of real entertainment are provided. A way must be found to put such programs on the air at many points, and along with this must come a television receiver giving a fairly large picture with good detail and brilliancy."

I. O. O. F. Line Officers Plan Meeting Tonight

The Line Officers Association, I. O. O. F., composed of ruling officers of all subordinate and other branches of the order in the District, will hold their first fall meeting as guests of Beacon Lodge, No. 15, in the Odd Fellows Temple tonight.

President Martin A. McGroarty expects about 500 to take part. The fact that Odd Fellows will take in the bicentennial will be discussed, and arrangements to entertain more than a hundred thousand Odd Fellows expected to visit this city during 1932 will be considered.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER

(Copyright, 1931.)

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

Pure Ignorance.

Dear Frances McDonald: About three years ago, I met a boy. We fell in love with each other and have been going together since. I gave up all my own friends because I was always thinking of him when I went out with others. He also gave up his girl friends.

Now here's my problem. I am considered good looking. Mostly all my previous friends flattered me, and gave me all my own way. Well, my boy friend always tells me how pretty I am and wonders how I went with him. He is really a nice looking fellow and has a magnetic personality. I suppose being used to people obeying my wishes, I expect him to do the same, which he does most of the time. We broke up twice—my fault. But it was always he who gave in to me.

I am very easily annoyed, it seems. Every time he takes me out, I find fault with him. Do you think I really love him? He wants me to marry him but I don't want to just yet. Please understand that he is the only one I really do care for, though I see him three times a week. Sometimes he takes my family out and most always my sister and brother. But no matter what he does for them my mother doesn't want me to ever marry him. She says he is all right to go around with because he's quiet and she knows I am safe with him. The reason for this is because I am Irish-American and he is Hungarian-American. Do you think that his parents' nationality matters? I don't, not as long as we are both born in America. When I am away from him, I think of him constantly and can never plan my future with any one else. He feels the same, and he really is the kind of fellow who loves one. He gave up drinking for me.

When I introduced him to my family I didn't dare tell his right name, because I was afraid my mother would not let me go with him. Again, I don't think the name matters. He is saving his money so we can be married. He bought a fur because I wanted it, and he is braver buying me little things such as pocketbooks, etc. I wish you could advise me. I have no one else to turn to. Thanking you sincerely for any advice you may give.

PATSY S.

Well, Patsy, the answer to your critical and depreciating attitude toward your lover lies in the bigoted and ignorant attitude of uneducated people toward all those of other nationalities than their own. People who have traveled and enjoyed wider social advantages know and number among their friends people of all lands. Those who have been limited in social experience retain the skepticism of the cannibal toward the strange white man. And as ignorance is never conscious of its shortcomings, the stranger is the one to suffer.

You are greatly inferior to this lad who loves you. Your nature is a small stature nature. You are attracted to him by the very superiority that you can not understand. His graciousness to your people—part of the training of his land—you attribute to an eagerness to ingratiate himself, rather than an instinctive gesture of innate courtesy to others. Married to him you would misinterpret every act and every thought. Life for both of you would be unthinkable. Had you enjoyed different home surroundings, met more people, you could appreciate, love and admire the man who now only makes you ill at ease, apologetic, and fearful. Your attitude reminds me of a New York parvenu to whom I once introduced a man who was a friend of Venezuela, Greek statesman. She called me by phone next day to tell me what she thought of young girls running around with "these here foreigners."

The courtly gentleman to whom she referred had been wide-eyed at her loudness, her impossible manners. His eyes asked why on earth such people were received. Yet, to that woman, he was the one to be criticized. And her son, who called for her, under the influence of liquor, dipped the hostess' lap dog into the punch bowl, and otherwise proclaimed his own status, would be considered by her a fit husband for any girl! Think things over, my child. Study your people and this man as a stranger would study both. And see if you have not been criticizing the wrong side!

Fifth Avenue Fashions

THE SMART JACKET DRESS.

It's indispensable for town wear, for travel and for college!

It's so thoroughly smart and serviceable.

Today's jaunty model uses a travel crepe silk print in combination with plain blending crepe in rich brown coloring.

The soft prettiness of the scalloped collar and double jabot is indeed flattering.

Supple woollens lend themselves perfectly to this model.

WEEK-END CRASHES COST LIVES OF TWO

Man Held on Manslaughter and Drunken-Driving Counts in Fairfax.

Two men were killed, several other persons were injured, four seriously, in week-end automobile accidents in nearby Virginia and Maryland, and one man is held without bond on manslaughter charges in the Fairfax County Jail as a result of one of the mishaps.

Those dead are John Coleman, 30, of Clarendon, and William H. Brown, colored, 31, of 515 Sixth street southeast. The former died in Georgetown Hospital yesterday as the result of a broken neck sustained when the car he was driving overturned three times near Falls Church. Severe bruises and cuts were also suffered by Mrs. Irving Murray, a passenger in the car. The colored man died at Fort Humphreys Hospital early yesterday from injuries received when struck by a car which was driven by a man allegedly drunk, as he climbed into his machine which was parked on the Richmond highway, near Accotink, Va.

Intoxication Charged.

Walter Bayless, 25, of Alexandria, driver of the car which struck Brown, has also been charged with driving while drunk and was ordered held for action of the Fairfax County grand jury after an inquest held at Fairfax yesterday by County Coroner C. A. Ransom, of Falls Church. Two passengers in Bayless' car, Archie Melton, 21, and William H. Brown, also of Alexandria, were held in $1,000 bond as material witnesses. Bayless and Melton sustained cuts from flying glass during the accident which is said to have occurred when Bayless lost control of his car, causing it to veer to the wrong side of the road. It struck Brown's machine as the latter was about to enter it after assisting another motorist. Fairfax County authorities said Brown's body was hurled more than 20 feet by the impact. Brown's car was nearly demolished by the crash. Charges of drunkenness were also placed against Bayless' passengers.

Coleman, accompanied by a party of friends, was returning from a fishing trip to Solomons Island, when the fatal accident occurred. He and Mrs. Murray got in the death car at Clarendon and were following the other members of the party to Falls Church, when Coleman is believed to have lost control. Those in the other car were J. I. Murray, P. H. Jenkins, of Bon Air, Va., and John A. Coleman, father of the dead man.

Funeral to Be Today.

Funeral services for Coleman will be held tomorrow at 2 o'clock from the family home in Clarendon. The Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

An 8-year-old boy, son of W. H. Melton, of Charlottesville, Va., and Mrs. Nora C. Roberts, grandmother of the boy, were seriously injured about noon yesterday when a car driven by Martin overturned near Legato, Va., in an attempt to avoid collision with a car pulling out of a driveway. The injured were taken to Alexandria Hospital, where it was said the boy was suffering from a fractured skull, while the woman suffered a badly cut left knee and shock. Several other passengers in Martin's car received slight injuries, but after treatment proceeded to Charlottesville.

Chester Wilson, 60, of New Haven, Conn., was in critical condition at Providence Hospital last night after the machine in which he was riding was struck by another car at Cattle Hill, about 9 miles from Washington, on the Baltimore pike. Other occupants of the car, Harry Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Repley, all of Baltimore, escaped unhurt. The machine was practically demolished.

Other Car's Driver Arrested.

Eugene Leak, colored, driver of the other car, was arrested and charged at the Hyattsville police station with reckless driving. Leak told police that when he came down the hill he did not see the car, which had stalled at the bottom. He claimed that its tail light was out. As the rear of Barnes' car was totally demolished, it could not be determined whether the light had been out or lit.

A man about 40 years old, said by Montgomery County police to be William Kuster, of Blue Plains, D. C., was in Montgomery County General Hospital last night with serious injuries sustained when a car driven by him left the road near Gaithersburg, Md., and crashed into a telephone pole.

The injured man was taken to the hospital by the Gaithersburg Fire Rescue Squad, which responded to a call for aid. At the hospital it was said that Kuster was suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. He was alone in the machine.

Candidates to Address Virginia Women Voters

The second of a series of special luncheon meetings being held under auspices of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, at which candidates for county officers are the speakers, will be held Wednesday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Glebe road at Rixey Station, Va. Luncheon will be served promptly at 12:30 o'clock, with the addresses immediately following.

The speakers will be candidates for the office of Commonwealth's attorney, House of Delegates and commissioner of revenue.

Corner Stone to Be Laid For Ballston Tabernacle

Work is progressing rapidly on the new $6,000 Ballston Tabernacle being built by the Church of the Nazarene in Ballston, Va., on Glebe road near Wilson boulevard. The building is of concrete and stucco construction.

The pastor, the Rev. M. H. Cave, announces that the corner stone laying exercises will be conducted next Sunday afternoon by the Rev. D. E. Higgs, of Baltimore, Md.

Bar Conclude Delegates Return.

Dean John McDill Fox and Dr. James J. Hayden have returned to Washington from Atlantic City, N. J., where they represented the Law School of the Catholic University of America at the convention of the American Bar Association. They joined in the successful movement to bring the annual convention of the Bar Association to Washington next year during the bi-centennial celebration.

Row in Alexandria Family Blamed in Suicide Attempt

A minor dispute with his family was blamed last night for an attempt of Frederick George Ayers, 54 years old, Alexandria gunsmith, to end his own life. Mr. Ayers is in a serious condition at Alexandria Hospital with a bullet wound under his heart.

The man fired three shots at himself with a .38-caliber revolver, but only one of the bullets took effect, according to police.

Mrs. Ayers told police there had been a brief family argument early yesterday morning at the home, 912 King street, Alexandria, and Mr. Ayers left the house to go to his shop at 324 King street, a few blocks away.

A short time later, she said, she received a message from the telephone operator that Mr. Ayers had shot himself. Records of the telephone company showed that the call was put through at 3:21 a. m., and the operator said Mr. Ayers had called her and asked her to deliver the message to his wife.

Mrs. Ayers immediately called police. Sgt. George Evers and Policemen Grimm and Mullen went to Mr. Ayers' place of business and found him on the floor of the shop near the door. A .38-caliber pistol was near his side.

He was taken to the hospital, where physicians found the bullet had entered just below the heart, struck a rib, punctured a lung and then passed out through the left side. They said his condition was grave.

ARLINGTON LEAGUE TO HEAR CANDIDATES

Better Government Group Is to Hold Mass Meeting Wednesday Night.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.

The Better Government League will hold a mass meeting Wednesday night at the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon to which the 51 candidates for the county board have been invited. The league Friday will select its slate of five and there is much speculation among the candidates as to whom they will be.

Indications are that there will be as many candidates at the meeting Wednesday as members of the league. From reliable sources it is learned that the five Republican candidates will not attend.

Beginning tomorrow night and continuing each Tuesday evening until election day, the School and Civic League of Barcroft announces special mass meetings at which candidates for the various county offices will be the speakers. The meetings will be held in the community house at 8 o'clock.

Speakers tomorrow will be candidates for the office of trial justice.

Mrs. Lillian Cunningham, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Virginia, will be honor guest tonight, when the Clarendon Rebekah Lodge No. 28 celebrates the eighteenth anniversary of the founding of Rebekah Odd Fellowship.

The Catherine Murphy Circle of the Ballston Central Methodist Episcopal Church will serve a chicken salad luncheon at the church tomorrow from 12 to 2 o'clock.

Ballston Council No. 30, Daughters of America, will meet tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Ballston Brethren's hall at 8 o'clock.

Latin-American Bureau Established by Catholics

The National Catholic Welfare Conference announces the establishment of a Latin-American bureau under the direction of Father McGowan, for the purpose of acting as a medium for the interchange of information relative to the Catholic activities, education and social work between the Catholics and the United States and Latin America.

Among Latin Americans the bureau will act largely as an information service which will deal not only with Catholic activities and methods in the United States, but with Catholic action in Latin America.

Stolen Cab Recovered; Driver Was Stripped

The taxi cab, which William K. Baidree, 23, of 1690 Park road northwest, was unceremoniously forced out of and stripped of his clothing and $8.50 by three colored bandits Saturday night near the corner of East Capitol and Fifty-third streets, was recovered yesterday afternoon at Division avenue and Grant street northeast.

No clue was to the identity of whereabouts of the robbers could be determined.

Alexandria Women Hold Emblem Fete

Miss Alice Whitton Directs Annual Breakfast Celebration.

The annual emblem breakfast of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club was held yesterday morning in the George Mason Hotel. Miss Alice H. Whitton, emblem chairman for the club, was in charge, assisted by her committee, including Miss Anita Noble, Miss Esther Heislery, Miss Evangeline Griesmer and Mrs. Fletcher Dyson.

The invocation was by the Rev. Dr. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. After a welcome by the club president, Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, the program was turned over to Miss Whitton, who presented Miss Elizabeth Ramey, a charter member of the organization. Miss Ramey read the interpretation of the emblem of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and Miss Edith M. Whitton gave the meaning of each symbol, the entire membership participating in the ceremony.

Two Missing Children Are Sought at Resort

Rocky Mount, Va., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Two children who disappeared from their home here on September 18, are believed by authorities to be either at Virginia Beach or somewhere in North Carolina.

Lennie Harrison, 16, and her brother, 13, were taken from Rocky Mount by a man, Mayor N. B. Hutcheson said tonight, and have not since been seen nor heard from. The girl was described as weighing 125 pounds, while her brother is small for his age and weighs 55 pounds. Both had brown hair and light complexion.

5 Washingtonians Are Hurt in Crash

Accident Near Elkton Is Attributed to Faulty Steering Gear.

Special to The Washington Post.

Elkton, Md., Sept. 27.—Five Washingtonians, including two children, were being treated in Union Hospital here tonight as the result of an automobile accident on the State road near Charlestown, 8 miles south of Elkton.

The victims of the crash are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ruddle, Mrs. Margaret Ruddle and her 3-year-old son, Thomas, and Margaret Catasoma, 4 years old. Mrs. Ruddle suffered internal injuries, hospital officials reported, and her condition was said to be serious. The other four persons are suffering from severe cuts, bruises and shock.

The party was en route to Elkton in a car driven by Mr. Ruddle, when the steering gear locked, it was reported. The car overturned and was practically demolished, according to J. C. Hopkins, State roads officer, who is investigating the accident.

Grange Spelling Bee Tonight.

Providence Grange will meet tonight in the auditorium of the schoolhouse at Oakton, during the spelling bee and the winners will hold a spelling bee and the winners will represent the local grange in the county-wide spelling bee of the Potomac Grange, which is to be held in January.

COOL BREEZES BLOW AT WOODLAND BEACH

Lucky Vacationers at Post's Summer Colony Escape Heat of Cities.

Although some Capital residents have complained recently because of the continued warm weather at this time of year, those who have been spending their time at Woodland Beach are hoping that such weather will continue indefinitely, for they are enjoying themselves thoroughly in this delightful resort.

Even though the fall months are approaching, they are planning to remain on at Woodland Beach for some time, because in this climate resort cottages are comfortable far into the fall season. They have found the beach the best place to stay and are going to take advantage of its beauties as long as possible.

Located on South River in Maryland, just 32 miles from Washington, Woodland Beach has proved itself the choice spot for Capital residents who want to get away from the city for vacation periods, for overnight or for week-end outings.

It is growing rapidly. Cottages dot the 4½ miles of waterfront now and many others are planned for next summer. You, too, may become one of the contented vacationists there by taking advantage of The Washington Post's offer of lots at the beach. It costs only $9 down together with the price of a subscription to The Post. The remainder of the $99 sale price may then be paid in monthly installments of $3.50 without interest charges.

Although the sale has been heavy during the summer months, there are still some excellent locations available at the beach, which may be obtained any day by calling at The Post office, where selections may be made. Act now before all the property is sold and you regret not having taken advantage of this bargain.

Officials Inspect Appomattox Sites

Pollard Back in Richmond After Visit to Locate Monument.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today returned from Appomattox, where he, with Representative Harry St. George Tucker, a representative of the War Department and five members of the Federal Fine Arts Commission, inspected various sites for a proposed national monument to be erected in the vicinity of the scene of the end of the Civil War.

Congress authorized $100,000 for the monument, the site of which is subject to the approval of the War Department. The arts commission is charged with the selection of a suitable design. Gov. Pollard said no action was taken, but the visitors examined a number of places.

After the Ball Is Over

Promoters frequently induce reliable civic, charitable, veteran and other organizations to give dances, musicals, dinners, athletic contests or entertainments.

The organization is led to believe that this is an easy method of obtaining money for its needs.

A high-pressure selling campaign is conducted. Many complaints of misrepresentation begin to come in to the organization.

Business and professional men purchase thousands of dollars worth of tickets. They have no intention of actually attending the affair, but wish to help the benefit fund. The standing of the organization in the community suffers.

After the ball is over and the expenses are paid, the organization nets a few hundred dollars, the promoter and his high-pressure salesmen a few thousand.

Is the result worth the price you pay?

THIS NEWS IS VITAL

For the very first time
Bond Bread now brings you sunshine vitamin-D

VITAL to sound even teeth, straight strong bones, and
HAPPIER HEALTH

NEVER before offered in sufficient quantity by any table-food—this scarcest of the health-guarding elements, vitamin-D, can now be had at everybody's table—in Bond Bread.

All the other vitamins are plentiful in almost any well-balanced meal.

But until now, enough sunshine vitamin-D could be obtained only from direct sunshine, from sun-lamps and from medicines.

EVERYBODY—ESPECIALLY CHILDREN

Everyone is better off with a steady and ample supply of sunshine vitamin-D every day. This is particularly true of children—to maintain health, promote proper growth, to strengthen resistance to colds and illness, and to build strong bones and sound even teeth.

So a new way had to be found to bring the extra vitamin-D we all need.

NOW—IN YOUR DAILY BOND BREAD

Now science has found the way to put this scarcest of vital health-building food elements into bread. And your own delicious, favorite Bond Bread has been chosen exclusively to offer this priceless improvement.

Just one to two slices each meal will give you all the extra sunshine vitamin-D you need.

SAME DELICIOUS FLAVOR

Your grocer has vitamin-D Bond Bread—the same delicious flavor, the same firm, home-like texture that “Flavor-Peak” Rising insures—the bread that more than a million housewives buy every day. And even with this priceless improvement, it costs you no more than you formerly paid.

OFFICIALLY APPROVED BY HIGHEST AUTHORITIES

EVERY claim made in this advertisement has been specifically checked and approved by recognized scientific authority.

BARRY FACES HARDEST TEST OF CAREER AT FORT TONIGHT

Mohawk Ace
And Wine in
FeatureOhio Fighter Floored
Stribling, Christner,
Beat Wiggins.Pollock and Irving in Bout; 36 Rounds Scheduled.

ANOTHER 36-round boxing card, with Red Barry and Frankie Wine, heavyweights, featured in the wind-up, will be presented at Fort Washington tonight.

When Chuck Wiggins was on his way up in the boxing game in 1929, he was matched against Wine in Detroit. Frankie was not figured to give Chuck much trouble, but he upset the old dope basket completely by lambasting Wiggins in ten rounds.

Jimmy Basco, who also handles Joe Simonich, tried for five months to get Akron (Ohio) performers to put Wine in with Young Stribling. Stribling finally accepted an offer, and Wine floored him twice. They were rematched two weeks later and again Wine had Willie on the floor, but could not finish him.

He did, however, according to Tom Andrews' record book, have K. O. Christner down twice in a bout and took a decision from him. He outboxed Joe Sekyra, whom many thought licked Tommy Loughran twice.

De Angelo and Landers
To Fight Again at Fort

A third match between Frankie De Angelo, flashy featherweight of this city, and Billy Landers, hard-punching Norfolk star, was closed last night by Fort Washington athletic authorities. The bout will be held October 12 with De Angelo forfeiting $50 if he fails to scale 125 pounds or less. Landers won the first clash and the second, last week, was a draw.

Fort authorities also announced last night that Mary Gallagher will meet the winner of tonight's feature between Red Barry and Frankie Wine on October 5, providing the winner's performance pleases the crowd.

Last week at the Queensboro Stadium, Al Friedman, Emmet Bocoo, Al Fay and Pietro Cori are a few he holds decisions over. He flattened Add Warren in three rounds.

This marks the first time Barry has been flung into the ring with a man who can punch and box at the same time. Just how "Reds" will face this situation will be interesting to watch.

Jack Pollock and Henry Irving square off in the semi-final of the 1931 world championship of boxing. Pollock has won nine in their last meeting, but Henry has learned much since then, and a real slugging match is expected.

Soldier Clark and Jack Cody clash in the six-round preliminary. Other four-rounders bring together Joe Bruno vs. Joe Piscatelli, Willie Eschinger vs. Young Shabazz and Soldier Smith vs. Soldier Sager.

It will be Clark's farewell appearance as a service fighter. He receives an honorable discharge next week and plans to align himself with Al Lippe, Philadelphia fight manager.

During his three-year career in the Army he has fought 32 times, winning 22 bouts, 5 by knockout, losing 6 and getting 4 draw decisions.

Tilden and Net Troupe

At Va. U. Tomorrow

Bill Tilden is slated to open the new Nancy Astor tennis courts at the University of Virginia tomorrow when he will play a three-out-of-five match with Albert Burke at 2 o'clock. Following the singles match, he will play with Emmet Pare in a set against Burke and Bobby Sellers.

The Charlottesville race track has made arrangements to handle the contest in big league style. Seating facilities have been constructed to care for 2,500 spectators.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

PRESTON MEISEL made his 325-yard hole-in-one at the Redford Golf Club, Detroit, 27. The green on which the shot was made could not be seen from the tee, and since Meisel's ace is about 25 yards longer than any other on record in the United States, it took considerable checking and double checking before club officials and golf authorities would accept the feat. The shot was backed up by three friends with whom Meisel was playing and numerous employees of the club.

—Havre de Grace Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Md., Sept. 27.—The Federal Hills Race, at a mile and a sixteenth, featured here tomorrow, appears to be a good spot for the Fox Catcher's Farm WHITE CLOVER II. The French-bred son of Simon Pure and Lovely Cloverly ran a winning race last Tuesday when he failed to get up to beat FORTUNATE YOUTH again with a three-pound weight shift in his favor. WHITE CLOVER II is partial to any kind of footing. He beat Martie, a first class studder, over a sloppy track at Saratoga Springs.

We expect an improved effort from MORSELE. The little "bull dog" failed to run his race with FORTUNATE YOUTH in the second race. FORTUNATE YOUTH had a tough race in deep going Saturday. Others entered in the Federal Hills are NOSTAW and ESSARE.

FIRST RACE—BYZANTINE should be by any chance get off the also eligible list, will race coupled with INGLE NOOK as the Greenlee Stable entry in the day's initial event. BYZANTINE ran a dull race Wednesday, but don't take that effort seriously. He was eased back when it was apparent he had no chance. INGLE NOOK raced fairly well in New York. BYZANTINE is rated a better colt than INGLE NOOK by those close to the Greenlee Stable. ON POST started but one time in New York and he turned in a fair performance with good company. CLIP DRIVE is in good hands. He finished second in his only start to date.

SECOND RACE—Elmer Truman has his charges in rare form. He will saddle SOME KNIGHT in the second race, providing the son of Bright Knight is lucky enough to get off the also eligible list. SOME KNIGHT was out of the money but one time in his sprinter at Chicago last summer. SUNERON's Chicago form was good.

FIFTH RACE—YOUR FLAG has an excellent chance in the fifth, which is an extremely open contest. The softer going the better this Miss likes it. She received a good conditioner in a sprint race last Thursday. SAND BELL ran a good race Tuesday when he just missed beating All Columbia. HOLD HARD changed hands yesterday. He has a chance, but the footing must not be too hard.

SIXTH RACE—BUBOLA has been entered and scratched several times since the meeting opened. If her trainer is looking for a soft spot he will hardly find a better one than the sixth. On best races BUBOLA figures to win. PETABIT's recent trials have been noteworthy. She's a cheap hide, but finishes close up now and then. PEACH BASKET may get up to earn the short award.

SEVENTH RACE—ABETH is preferred. Old RUBAN ROUGE will fancy the long route. He was at his best through the recent half-mile season. STRONG HEART will be dangerous if he repeats his last winning effort.

WASHINGTON GOLFERS TRIUMPH IN INTER-CITY MATCHES

Baltimoreans Win One, Tie Another

Hunter Stars in Play at Indian Spring; Manor Wins.

Edler Annexes Birney Cup in Golf at Washington.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

FOUR Washington clubs and four Baltimore clubs met on local golf courses yesterday in the first of the series of intercity team matches held in this city this year and staged under the direction of the Maryland State Golf Association. The result was decidedly in favor of the Washington golfers, only one Baltimore team being able to win and the other three being defeated.

Competition was best-ball four-ball matches, with twelve contestants in each team and with the scoring registered under the Nassau system, three points to each match. At Indian Spring the visitors from Rodgers Forge were won under, 17½ points to 1½, while Manor had 12 points to 6 for the Maryland Country Club. The Chevy Chase-Rolling Road match resulted in a tie, 9 to 9, and Beaver Dam went down in defeat to Clifton Park, the score being 7 points to 11.

There was an unusually large number of close finishes. For instance, at the Manor Club, Glenn Spencer, of the Maryland Club, ran down a long putt and a birdie 3 on the eighteenth green to win for his side. At Treder, the Manor Club professional, missing a 4-foot putt which would have given him also a birdie 3 and a half.

Hunter Wins at Indian Spring.

At the Indian Spring Club, with the match between Dr. L. S. O'Neil and J. Menor Hunter, Indian Spring, all even with Morris Ridgely and Dr. L. B. Rossmore, Rodgers Forge, on the eighteenth green, Hunter carried the match with his second shot and won the match for his side with two putts.

INDIAN SPRING, 17½ RODGERS

J. Menor Hunter, professional, and LeRoy Davidson, professional, defeated Dr. L. S. O'Neil, professional, and J. Menor Hunter, professional, 17½ to 1½.

Dr. L. S. O'Neil and J. Menor Hunter, professional, defeated Dr. L. S. O'Neil, professional, and J. Menor Hunter, professional, 17½ to 1½.

MANOR, 12 MARYLAND

Glenn Spencer, professional, and LeRoy Davidson, professional, defeated Dr. L. S. O'Neil, professional, and J. Menor Hunter, professional, 12 to 6.

CHEVY CHASE, 9 ROLLING ROAD

TREE IN PLAYGROUND WILL BE PLANTED TO HONOR MRS. HOOVER

Chief Executive's Wife Will Act Under Auspices of Women's Club.

FALL SPORTS PROGRAM WILL BE STARTED SOON

More Than 100 Soccer and Basket Ball Teams to Be Organized.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover will plant a tree October 28 on Mitchell Park playground, Twenty-third and S streets northwest, under sponsorship of the Women's City Club, which has held three similar events in the past. Mrs. William Howard Taft planted a tree on Park View playground, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge planted one on Chevy Chase playground and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson did likewise on Virginia Avenue playground.

The tree to be planted by Mrs. Hoover will stand in her honor, as do those planted by the former Chief Executive's wives.

Mitchell Park playground was chosen for the ceremony because Mrs. Hoover lived across the street from this site when the President was Secretary of Commerce.

Miss Sibyl Baker, supervisor of playgrounds, is chairman of the committee on arrangements and plans to make the occasion of city-wide interest.

Competitive Sports Planned.
The playground department's fall program of competitive sports will be inaugurated soon under Miss Baker's direction. More than 100 teams of soccer and basketball players will participate.

In an effort to provide recreation for children of preschool age, Miss Baker has arranged for establishment of kindergartens at many white and colored playgrounds. These kindergartens will open daily at 2 p. m. Following is a list of the 43 playgrounds and supervisors who will be in charge:

Municipal playgrounds—Bloomingdale, Elizabeth Mahon; Burroughs, Frances Kessler; Chevy Chase, Ruth Tate; Gallinger, Sue K. Hand; Garfield, Ruth Oakes; Georgetown, Abbie Flynn; Hamilton, Gertrude Overman; Happy Hollow, Kathleen Fisher; Hoover, Joseph Mitchell; Iowa Avenue, Jacqueline Whiting; Mitchell Park, Sadie Lewis; Montrose Park, Pauline Woodruff; New York Avenue, Marie McAuliffe; Park View, Emily Tilton; Phillips, Leola Green; Potomac, Helen Brown; Bayshore, Florence Boteler; Rosedale, Ruth Britt; Takoma Park, Olive Hancock; Thompson, Elizabeth Jones; Twin Oaks, Virginia Store; Virginia Avenue, Thelma Smith.

Colored Supervisors.
Colored—Barry Farms, Florence Matthews; Calver, L. LeBrant; Howard, Daisy Pierce; Logan, Mary Dickerson; Monroe, Olive Rose; Payne, Gladys Mayo; Rose Park, Violet McKinney; Willow Tree, Ruth Robinson; Sixth and L, Helen Capers. School playgrounds—Bancroft, Etta Weaver; Barnard, Betty Thomas; Benning, Marion Oliver; H. D. Cooke, Kathleen Carpenter; and Walter Haight, Corcoran, Lou James; Hayes, Marjorie Kilmarren and Howard Griffith; Tenley, Lydia Gassman; Murch, Marie Trede; Wheatley, Rosemary Easton.

Colored—Briggs, Ethel Cook; Burrville, Elanah Early; Cook, Nellie Smith.

Scouts to Hold 8 Courts in Month

Award Session October 24 to Be Series Climax for District Council.

The District of Columbia Council of Boy Scouts has eight courts of honor and review scheduled for the month of October. The courts are scheduled for Saturday to be held at Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, at Clarendon, Va., M. E. Church and the regular monthly court at Hyattsville, Md.

Saturday night, October 10, courts will be held at Rockville, Md., and Alexandria, Va., with the Thompson Court scheduled for October 14. The Metropolitan Baptist Church will hold its court at Hyattsville, Md.

The court of awards is scheduled for October 24 at the Metropolitan Baptist Church. A large number of life, star and eagle awards will be made at this court.

Woman Held as Mate Wounded in Shooting

Emmett Vanison, colored, 38 years old, 434 New Street northeast, was in serious condition at Casualty Hospital last night after he had been shot in the chest with his own gun in an altercation at his home yesterday afternoon.

Vanison was said to have fired a shot at his wife, who grabbed the gun, causing it to discharge, inflicting a wound in his chest. Mrs. Vanison was arrested and held at the Women's Bureau pending an investigation.

Y.W.C.A. Fall Program To Open Next Week

Fall and winter program of the Young Women's Christian Association will open next Monday, under supervision of Mrs. Wilson Compton. It will include among its health and recreation activities dancing, swimming, golf, tennis, badminton and basketball. A special course in gymnastics will be offered for those interested in weight normalizing.

A special course in life-saving, beginning next month, will be given by Ira Lee Law of the Red Cross.

Mark Twain's Daughter Will Speak at Institute

Clara Clemens, daughter of Mark Twain, will be a feature speaker of the Community Institute course this year. Her subject will be "Reminiscences of Mark Twain."

Miss Clemens, who is the wife of Osgar Gabriellowitch, conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, will appear at the Central Community Center.

FRIENDSHIP HOUSE ANNUAL CIRCUS IS PLANNED

This group will take part in the second annual circus sponsored by the clubs of the Friendship House in the outdoor gymnasium next Saturday, October 3. Prizes will be awarded for the most unusual costumes and the most attractively decorated floats. Floats, wagons, bicycles, automobiles and baby carriages may be entered if they are registered before Saturday at the Friendship House at 324 Virginia avenue southeast. The street parade will take place at 2 o'clock and the circus at 7:30. Lower left—Ida Smith and Catherine Hardy, who will appear as bareback riders. Lower right—Frank Portello, the featured clown, and Bruce McBade, as a cat.

TRADE BODIES PLAN CONSUMER APPEALS

Interdependence in Business Life to Be Emphasized in Campaign.

A series of appeals to consumers through newspapers and the radio in an effort to promote a new understanding between retailers and consumers will be made in a joint campaign of the Washington Chamber of Commerce and the United States Chamber of Commerce. Messages from six prominent women representing various women's interests will be presented, sponsors of the campaign said.

Great improvement in retailing has resulted in the last few years from closer relationships between manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, according to Isaac Gans, chairman of the local chamber's retail trade committee.

"Yet the consumer," he declared, "the ultimate in distribution, has not been taken into the partnership." As a result misunderstandings arise frequently and ill-founded statements pertaining to retailing are easily passed along because the average consumer is ignorant of facts relating to retail operations and functions.

"It is our plan to inform the woman consumer of her importance in the business life of the community and to clear up the popular misconceptions that exist in many people's minds and to stress the value of deeper understanding of the interdependence of consumer and retailer in terms of benefits to both."

Man Is Held for Store Robberies in Southeast

An alleged "Jimmy artist," believed by police to have been responsible for several recent robberies of retail stores in the Southeast and Southwest sections, was arrested by Police Officer Francis G. Plikerton and William Hayden, of the Fourth Precinct, last night.

The man, Albert Crawford, 22, colored, of 1265 First street southeast, is booked at the precinct on six charges of housebreaking, and police desire to clear up a number of additional cases. The policeman recognized Crawford from police circulars when they saw him loitering at New Jersey avenue and N street southeast.

Sailor, on Leave, Loses $100 Matching With 2 Strangers

Lavaugh M. Cobb, U. S. N., will never match pennies with strangers again, not if he can help it. He was flummoxed out of $100 yesterday morning as a result of it.

Cobb, who is stationed on the U. S. S. Asheville at Boston, had been visiting his wife at L street northwest, and his allotted leave was up, so he was back to his ship.

While waiting at the Greyhound Bus Terminal for his bus, Cobb said, a tall slim man approached him and suggested that they go for a walk. Cobb consented and they started walking. Then trouble approached.

Meals Cost Diners $60 After Flight

Three Washington men partook of an unusually expensive dinner at the Fairfax Inn Saturday evening at Fairfax, Va. The dinner they ate would normally cost $1.90, but the three paid about $58 additional.

Late in the evening the three entered the inn and ordered three dinners. When they had finished their meal two of them left the dining room and entered their car outside. The third man stayed at the table and ordered a bowl of soup. While the waitress was in the kitchen he slipped out, got into the car and the three drove away.

The waitress, returning with the soup, was surprised to find her customer gone. She ran to the door and saw the car turn into Lee highway. Calling the Fairfax County Jail, she told her story to Sheriff E. P. Kirby. The sheriff, accompanied by Capt. Haywood J. Durrer, of the county police, furnished with descriptions of the fleeing trio, began the chase, which ended near Meridian, about 6 miles from the scene.

The men were returned to Fairfax and given a hearing before Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie. They were identified by two of the waitresses. One of the men convinced the justice he was innocent. The other two, who gave their names as W. D. Griffith, of 4710 De Russay street, Chevy Chase, and N. F. Simpson, of 3040 R street northwest, Washington. They were forced to pay the twelve check and were fined $20 and costs each for being drunk.

Fire Squad Dons Masks To Stop Ammonia Leak

Ammonia fumes from a leaking tank in the basement of the butcher shop of Lewis Cohen at 6128 Georgia avenue northwest last night drove away a dozen customers from a drug store next door but resulted in no ill effects.

The fire rescue squad responded and firemen found it necessary to don masks in order to stop the leak.

Planned Drill Changes to Be Shown

A demonstration of proposed changes in the close and extended order movements of infantry drill will be given by a company of the Twelfth Infantry, stationed at Washington Barracks, on the northern end of the War College grounds tomorrow morning, beginning at 9:30 o'clock.

Man Claims He Aided Three in Party Secure Rum and Asks Police Help.

Playing "Good Samaritan" yesterday morning to three strangers in a roadside who wanted a pint of liquor, as a "pick-up" on the "morning after," cost Joseph B. Caraway, 612 Third street northwest, $76, he reported to police.

According to the story told police, Caraway met the men near Fourth and F streets northwest, and after some conversation agreed to obtain them the liquor. They then asked him to take a ride with them. Caraway said police. When he agreed, he was taken to a point near Seat Pleasant, Md.

There the bottle was passed. After this amity had been observed, Caraway said, one of the men produced a gun and demanded his money. Seeing no other escape, Caraway passed over his bankroll and the men left him.

Police broadcast a lookout for the men the basic information furnished by Caraway.

Conception and Birth are the revelation of the sanctity and glory of parenthood," the preacher explained. "Growth is the law of divinity. Miracles are the working of omnipotence. Teaching is but the unfolding of the revelation of eternal truth. Death but the mysterious process of life and resurrection. The lifting of the star of eternal hope. Ascension is the eternal byway that leads ever upward and onward and Godward, and the agony of Christ is but the revelation of the heart, of soul, of life."

"The cross is the highest symbol of the nature of God. It is itself a symbol. The cross itself is nothing but two pieces of wood placed together, but because of him who was crucified upon it, it has been glorified in the minds and thinking of millions and its splendor will be seen through to the generations to come," he concluded.

"Audience Thrilled" by Mendelssohn, was the organ prelude and the postlude, "Postlude in B Flat," by Volkmann. The quartet sang, "Christ, the Morning Breaks Sweetly O'er Thee," by Schubert.

FULL CONGREGATION HEARS DR. SHELTON TALK ON 'THE CROSS'

Church Crowded to Capacity as Vindicated Minister
Resumes Pulpit.

ATTENDANCE EVINCES
WELCOME TO PASTOR

Suffering Purifies and Pain
Glorifies, He Declares in Morning Sermon.

"It is suffering that purifies and pain that glorifies, and disappointment that makes triumphant," said Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Mount Vernon First Methodist Episcopal Church, yesterday in a sermon, "The Cross," delivered at the 11 o'clock service.

The church was filled to capacity, a large group turning out to welcome the pastor following his recent vindication by an ecclesiastical court. At both the morning and evening services people stood in the aisles and in the balcony.

"It is the night that brings out the stars," Dr. Shelton said. "It is the wound in the oyster that makes the pearl and the grinding process of nature that comes with all of its force upon the baser things within its bosom until the diamond is born."

"In all the world's working the cross is present. There is no excellence without great labor," he continued.

Human Sacrifice Unnecessary.
"The symbolism of the lamb is very ancient in biblical lore. Israel very probably practiced human sacrifice. When Abraham undertook to sacrifice his son, Isaac, on Mount Moriah, he was stopped by the angel, indicating that God did not require human sacrifice. And, as he turned, he found a ram caught in the brush as further proof. This he substituted for his son."

"We are often chained to earth by material conceptions of the highest spiritual things. We speak of the cross as if it were a piece of wood. The Empress Helena was said to have discovered the true Cross of Jesus after a dream, and thereafter this wood was distributed to the churches. It was said to be so precious that enough had been sent out to almost build a city," Shelton said.

"But if the actual cross on which the body of Jesus hung could be reproduced, active in the experience of a tender feeling toward it and reverent as a memento, there would actually be no more value to it than to any other wood."

"The total experience of Jesus on earth: his miraculous birth, growth, teachings, miracles, death, resurrection, and ascension are but the exhibitions of the eternal processes of redemption active in the experience of God. These are indeed the highest exhibitions of God's relationship to the world."

Cross Highest Symbol.
"Conception and birth are the revelation of the sanctity and glory of parenthood," the preacher explained. "Growth is the law of divinity. Miracles are the working of omnipotence. Teaching is but the unfolding of the revelation of eternal truth. Death but the mysterious process of life and resurrection. The lifting of the star of eternal hope. Ascension is the eternal byway that leads ever upward and onward and Godward, and the agony of Christ is but the revelation of the heart, of soul, of life."

"The cross is the highest symbol of the nature of God. It is itself a symbol. The cross itself is nothing but two pieces of wood placed together, but because of him who was crucified upon it, it has been glorified in the minds and thinking of millions and its splendor will be seen through to the generations to come," he concluded.

"Audience Thrilled" by Mendelssohn, was the organ prelude and the postlude, "Postlude in B Flat," by Volkmann. The quartet sang, "Christ, the Morning Breaks Sweetly O'er Thee," by Schubert.
